BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The national headquarters of the Red Cross today dispatched 50 disaster relief workers by plane from Washington to Memphis, Tenn., where field headquarters have been set to direct aid for tornado sufferers.

(By Associated Press)

Tornadic storms ripped over a 600-mile long strip of six southern and midwestern states yesterday, leaving in their wake at least 123 dead, over 900 injured and millions of dollars in property damage.

Terrific winds cut across the northwestern section of Mississippi where at least 65 were known dead, and approximately 620 others injured. High winds also left a trail of death and destruction in western Kentucky, Tennessee, and Indiana, and killed at least 20 in Illinois. Storms were reported as far west as Missouri.

The toll of dead and estimated number of injured by states: Mississippi, 65 dead, 620 injured; Illinois, 20 dead, 170 injured; Kentucky, 16 dead, 20 injured; Tennessee, 20 dead, 100 injured; Indiana, two dead, 50 injured.

Mississippi, hardest hit, rushed all available aid to the disaster zone, covering an area of 150 miles wide and about 100 miles deep. The section, mostly rural with only a few scattered cities, was without communication for several hours in many places. Torrential rains followed the high winds and washed out many roads.

Nineteen were known dead 206 injured in Leflore county in northwestern Mississippi, and at (Continued on Page 14, Col. 5)

Army Starts Probe After 14 Lose Lives In Disasters.

PENDLETON, Ore.—(INS)—Two separate crashes of giant army bombers, one in eastern Oregon and the other in western Idaho, which took a toll of 14 lives, were investigated by army and civilian authorities today.

Two men escaped with their lives in the Idaho crash.

In the Oregon crash, three officers and seven enlisted men died when the bomber zoomed into a mountain peak, 20 miles south of Pendleton. The plane caromed off the peak and was shattered against the side of another.

On the outskirts of Boise, Idaho, two officers and two enlisted men were killed when their B-17 bomber crashed as it circled to make a landing at Gowen field.

Income Tax Period Ends With Rush

City Office Reports Three Times As Many Pay As Ever Before.

The last big wave of income tax returns, expected to push the total close to a million and a half, was flowing today from Ohio postoffices into the internal revenue offices.

Mansfield's zone office in the postoffice building handled "three or four times as many returns as it did in previous years," according to Charles S. Mosey, deputy collector, and the number of returns filed made history for the postoffice money order department.

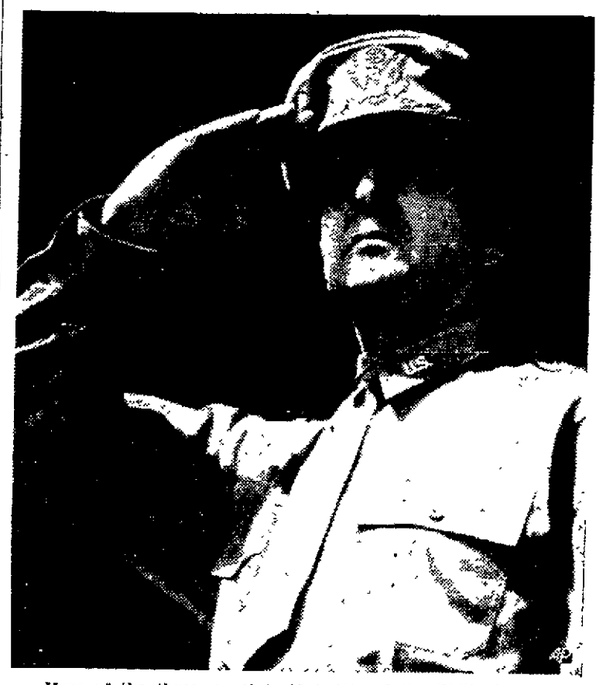
Postmaster Herman E. Homberger said that the money order department had another record-breaking day yesterday as 623 money orders were issued, only a few less than the number, 632, that shattered all local records last week.

Although a steady stream of people filed into the internal revenue offices here yesterday from 8:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. the number tapered off considerably after that time until midnight Mosey said. The last person to file returns beat the deadline by only five minutes.

Record-breaking totals in the number of returns and amounts paid faced revenue bureau workers today as truckloads of unopened mail was still to be handled.

The heaviest flow of forms and money was in the 22 counties of the Cleveland district, of which Mansfield is a part.

Takes Command In Australia



Hero of the three-months' old battle of the Philippines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur today arrived in Australia after a secret flight from Batan with his wife and son. He will take supreme command of the United Nations forces in the far Pacific. The war department said Gen. MacArthur's assignment to the critical Australian theater, now imminently threatened with invasion by Japan, was requested by the Australian government. His command will also include the Philippines, where American and Filipino troops are still valiantly defending the tiny Batan peninsula against numerically superior Japanese forces. Gen. MacArthur's transfer from the shot-torn foxholes of Batan to the vast plains of Australia came as a heart-warming move to the United Nations. The war department said President Roosevelt directed Gen. MacArthur to shift his headquarters to the British commonwealth on Feb. 22 as soon as the necessary arrangements could be made.

5,022 RICHLAND MEN WAIT THIRD DRAFT LOTTERY

Fishbowl Drawing In Capital Tonight Decides Service Fate of 9,000,000.

SETS ORDER NUMBERS

Classification To Follow, With Some Due To Enter Armed Forces By June.

The order in which 5,022 Richland county men will be examined for possible induction into the armed forces will be determined tonight in the first draft lottery of the current world war.

Beginning at 6 p. m., EWT, numbers will be drawn throughout the night in Washington to fix the order of calling these 5,022 and the rest of the nine million American men who registered Feb. 16. Of that total roughly 1,650,000 are from 20 to 21, and 7,350,000 older men of 36 to 45. The draw is expected to take about 12 hours.

From the numbers, the three Richland county draft boards and the other local boards throughout the nation will determine the order of sending out questionnaires and having registrants examined physically before classifying them.

Order numbers affecting the 5,022 Richland county registrants will be published in tomorrow's edition of The News-Journal. Serial numbers and names were carried in Sunday's edition. Hence any registrant in the county may learn his order number from Wednesday's paper.

Two changes in the list published Sunday were reported today by Draft Board No. 1, carrying its list of serial numbers, the largest of the three boards, to 1,828 instead of 1,826. The new registrations, received by mail from residents temporarily out of the city, are: T1,827—William Byron Frantz, and T1,828—Don Frederick Moore.

Brig Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, said some of the men affected by tonight's drawing may be inducted by June.

BODIES FOUND

Considered Evidence of New Tanker Sinking.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(INS)—Bodies of two seamen were recovered by the coast guard today six miles off shore, mute evidence of another sea disaster off the New Jersey coast. Earlier, debris and wreckage, presumably from a tanker was discovered washed up on the beach here.

It was feared the vessel was a victim of the Axis U-boat offensive.

Coast guardsmen at the Wildwood, N. J. station reported recovering the two victims. One was identified by papers in his clothes as Patrick Francis Sparrow, 43, of 91 Playstead road, West Medford, Mass. He had a watch in his pocket which had stopped at 2:30.

Both bodies were oil-covered leading to the presumption they were members of the crew of the tanker believed sunk.

Tires On Car of Figure In Butler School Row Slashed

One of the principal figures in the Butler school board row came into the limelight again today when he reported to the county sheriff's office that vandals had slashed all four tires on his automobile while it was parked last night in the garage across from his home, one mile west of Butler.

Kinsey Morgan, Butler school board member, and the complainant in the case told Sheriff Frank Robinson that all four tires were ruined beyond repair, and that the only tire he had left was a "flat" he had tossed into the back of the car after changing it on the road yesterday. The "flat" was not damaged.

Morgan is one of the two Butler school board members who were beaten during an outbreak of violence which marked the start of a strike by students Feb. 6 in protest against suspension of Superintendent Willard S. Weekley.

Wife And Son Accompany New Supreme Commander Of United Nations Forces From Corregidor 23 Days After He Receives Roosevelt Order.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, foremost commander of the Allied war chieftains, arrived in Australia from the beleaguered Philippines today and has assumed supreme command of the United Nations forces there in Australia's hour of peril.

The colorful defender of the Philippines reached Australia after a secret airplane flight, only a few hours after official disclosure that American troops—air and ground forces "in considerable numbers"—have landed in Australia and are preparing to meet Japan's blows against the southwest Pacific bastion.

MacArthur, the war department announced, was ordered by President Roosevelt to leave the Philippines 23 days ago and go to Australia "as soon as the necessary arrangements could be made."

It had been conceded by top military authorities for weeks—while demands for MacArthur's "rescue" from the Philippines were made in congress and in Australia—that a presidential order would be necessary to make him leave his valiant little army that has held the Japanese at a standstill on the Batan battlefront.

MacArthur was accompanied to Australia—nearly 2,000 miles south of the Philippines—by his wife and son, who during recent weeks are believed to have remained in Corregidor fortress at the entrance to Manila bay. Corregidor has been subjected to frequent Japanese aerial bombardment.

The world-famous American commander, whose stand on Batan peninsula has won the adulation of millions, takes over the post vacated recently by Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, British commander who was relieved of the United Nations supreme command in the Pacific.

No successor was named at that time for Wavell, who (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

CHEERED: Congress Thrilled By MacArthur's Appointment

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A thrill swept congress today at the news that Gen. Douglas MacArthur is now in Australia as supreme commander of Allied forces.

Broad grins supplanted soberness in the faces of senators and representatives as they heard the news. They saw in Gen. MacArthur a great hope for dealing a defeat to the Japanese.

Typical comment follows:

Sen. Guffey (D., Pa.): "Gen. MacArthur is thoroughly qualified and I am glad we are taking advantage of his education and training."

Sen. Tydings (D., Md.): "They've got the right leadership out there now and it looks like they'll need it."

Sen. Burton (R., O.): "I think that is a splendid action. It will give confidence both to the troops and to the country as a whole."

Sen. Connally (D., Tex.): "We are thrilled by his example and the democracies will rally to his courage and leadership. He will write a new chapter in the war."

House Minority Leader Martin (R., Mass.): "I am delighted. His appointment as supreme commander will give great confidence to the American people."

Rep. Vinson (D., Ga., chairman of the naval affairs committee): "That's the best news of the war. We've got to hold Australia and now we will hold it."

Rep. Mansfield (D., Tex.): "If we can now only keep him supplied with men and materials, he will raise hell with the Japs."

BREECH: Red Army Opens Big Hole In German Donets Line

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—The Red army has opened a big breech in German positions in the Donets basin, front dispatches said today. The enemy was reported counter-attacking despite heavy losses, however, with furious fighting in progress on a wide southern front.

The pounding effect of the Soviet attacks was illustrated by dispatches reporting that only 100 Germans out of a battalion and two companies (about 1,300 men) escaped in one sector after a Russian artillery and infantry assault.

But the Nazis were throwing reserves into the battle and launching strong tank counter-attacks. Dispatches said that the action continued with the outcome not yet clear.

(London and Berlin reports recently have told of big-scale fighting in the Ukraine, including a Russian drive that carried into the suburban streets of Kharkov and at some points broke through the Axis defense line in the Kharkov-Orel sector.

(The Berlin propaganda broadcast this morning said that Russian forces were attacking strongly on the southern front and had made "repeated attempts" to break through on a central front sector. One temporary break in the southern front was acknowledged by Berlin, which asserted that the hole in the defense line later was closed during fighting in a snow storm.)

WOODLAND HOME STRUCK BY BOLT

Electrical Storm Hits City as Mercury Mounts; It's Due To Drop Today.

Mansfield got through its first severe thunderstorm of 1942 last night without any serious damage although one home in Woodland was struck by lightning which ripped off roof shingles and blew out an electric plug.

The calendar still said winter, but that didn't mean a thing to Mansfield yesterday.

Overcoats and long underwear were hurriedly shed by many citizens when the weather man skipped spring for a day and provided a taste of summer, mixing a thunderstorm, showers and an almost record mercury mark for the day.

Thermometers in Mansfield soared to 70 degrees, and the day's average temperature of 57 was 20 degrees higher than the 17-year average. This was the fourth time in the past 17 years when the mercury has reached 70 degrees on March 16. In 1930, it climbed to 71 degrees.

Slingshots Break Windows In Four Business Places

Mansfield police were uncertain today whether to class several acts of vandalism committed in the city last night as the work of elves, sprites, banshees and other figures in Irish folklore having a St. Patrick's eve celebration or that of flesh-and-blood beings who might be placed behind bars.

At least four Mansfield business places felt the weight of the vandals' attack with most of the damage being confined to broken windows.

Reporting damage to police were the Richland County Auto club, the Atlantic and Pacific supermarket on Bowman street, the Sears, Roebuck and company store, and the Sandard Oil company's bulk station on Miller street.

Police said that in all cases no attempt was made to enter the places but that the windows had been smashed probably by someone using a slingshot.

3-Way Probe Studies Charge Industries Balk War Effort

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A three-way investigation of charges that representatives of various industries within the war production board have been obstructing plans for the nation's all-out war effort was under way today.

Separate congressional probes will be made by the house and the senate while Donald M. Nelson, war production czar, is making his own investigation.

The congressional inquiries are expected to go beyond the turmoil stirred up in the WPB by the resignation of Robert R. Guthrie as head of the textile, clothing and leather goods division, and two of his assistants. Guthrie charged that his efforts to convert certain industries to war production needs met with "continued resistance within the WPB."

Sen. Truman (D., Mo.), chairman of the senate defense committee, in calling a meeting of his committee to take up the Guthrie allegations, said that the rubber situation and other defense matters will be looked into.

Stealing a march on the senate group, Rep. Faddis (D., Pa.), chairman of a house military affairs subcommittee, summoned Guthrie and his two assistants, Marshall Hale and George P. Doherty, to appear first before his group on Thursday.

M'Arthur Arrives In Australia, Takes Over

Commands United Nations Forces As U. S. Announces AEF Has Landed In Big Numbers To Battle Japanese.

was returned to his command of the defense of India and also charged with the defense of Burma.

MacArthur also was accompanied on his flight to Australia by his chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland; Brig. Gen. Harold H. George of the air corps, and several other staff officers, the war department said.

"He will be the supreme commander in that region including the Philippine Islands in accordance with the request of the Australian government," it was said.

"On Feb. 22 the president directed Gen. MacArthur to transfer his headquarters from the Philippines to Australia as soon as the necessary arrangements could be made Gen. MacArthur requested that he be permitted to delay in carrying out the order until he could perfect arrangements within his command in the Philippines. This delay was authorized by the president."

War department spokesmen emphasized that MacArthur's transfer—in the midst of one of the most dramatic stands in history, made against numerical odds of 20 to one or more—does not mean that the battle of Batan is regarded as lost.

Maj. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, close friend of MacArthur and his right-hand man in the Philippines, will carry on against the Japanese on the jungle battlefront of Batan, a spokesman said.

Wainwright, a cavalry officer, is a former commandant of Fort Myers, Va. He is regarded as one of the army's shrewdest students of modern warfare, as official dispatches from the Philippines during the past three months have shown.

MacArthur, it was believed, undoubtedly will lose no time in putting into action his hard-hitting tactics which stymied and took a heavy toll of the Japanese on Batan, finally forcing a shift in commanders-in-chief.

MacArthur's shift to Australia, according to the war department communique, was made at specific request of the Australian government which during the past week has made increasingly stronger demands that the United States take the lead in the defense of the continent "down under."

In Australia, he will have at his disposal fresh and well-equipped American Doughboys of the newly arrived A E F. as well as Australian, Dutch and British forces.

The war department provided no details as to how MacArthur made his successful flight from the Philippines to Australia — across a dangerous route where his plane was subject to Japanese attack at any moment Nor did it indicate where he will set up his headquarters.

Today's announcement revealed that President Roosevelt directed MacArthur to go to Australia two weeks before the Japanese sent a new commander-in-chief into the Philippines in an effort to crush MacArthur's resistance.

On March 9 the war department reported that Gen. Masaharu Homma, the Japanese commander, was believed to have committee hara-kiri in the Manila hotel to escape disgrace for his failure to knock out the MacArthur forces on Batan peninsula. The next day it was revealed that Homma had been replaced by Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, conqueror of Malaya and Singapore and Japan's most famous general

Although Yamashita was expected to launch an all-out attack on MacArthur the Batan front has been ominously quiet for two weeks, presumably while Yamashita awaits the arrival of aerial reinforcements before launching an offensive.

MacArthur's elevation to the supreme command in Australia climaxes the most colorful career in modern U. S. military history. He has gone through the entire gamut of military honors, rising in 27 years from a lieutenant to the United States' army's youngest chief of staff.

All his life he has been identified with the Philippines where he saw his first overseas service in 1903.

MacArthur's shift heightened enthusiasm stirred by the war department's disclosure last night that "considerable numbers of American troops have arrived in Australia.

The new air and ground forces announced to have arrived in Australia constitute the second "American expeditionary force" officially announced to have landed on foreign shores The first arrived in North Ireland on Jan 26

The surprise announcement came several days after hints here and abroad that large convoys of American troops and war materials were en route to the southwest Pacific. The troops arrived in the midst of growing demands among the Allies for an offensive" in that area

American officials were certain that the news that the 'Yanks are here" would cheer Australians who have been preparing grimly for an expected all-out offensive by the enemy. The Australian watchword is "work, fight, or perish."

There were no details available regarding the American troops, not even the name of their commander. The communique, issued shortly before midnight, said only:

"The secretary of war announces that units of the United States army, including both air and ground troops in considerable numbers, are now in Australia. No information as to strength, designation of units, nor location is at present available for publication."

Australia long has looked to the United States for reinforcements for their last ditch stand against the Japanese Her leaders have emphasized the importance to the United Nations of holding that continent as a possible springboard against the enemy when it is time for an attack Australia also is an important link in the sea supply route across the Pacific from the United States. Loss of it would make it necessary to route all shipments to India and the Near East around Africa.

It has been known for some time that American aviators have been in Australia. They were in Java during the early stages of the battle for the Dutch colonial empire and have inflicted with their big bombers and fighters heavy losses on the enemy.

However, informed observers cautioned today that Japan's victories have cost her relatively little in ships, planes and manpower and that it would be ridiculous at this stage of the struggle to anticipate "exhaustion" of the enemy.

With the possible exception of merchant ships sunk or crippled, Japan's losses probably can be replaced within a few months if she can obtain a "breathing spell" and consolidate her gains, the American council of the Institute of Pacific relations reported.

But the growing Allied strength in and around Australia, which now includes American expeditionary forces and constantly arriving American aerial reinforcements, may deny the Japanese any such "breathing spell" and force them to drive on against Australia.

Seek To Mass Huge Force In Australia

MELBOURNE, Australia—(UP)—Allied commanders are seeking to mass in Australia a great defensive and offensive force, it was understood today as Secretary of War Henry L Stimson announced at Washington the arrival of United States forces on this continent.

Well informed sources said it was the intention of the Allied commands first to stop the Japanese when they attack on Australia and then to move out to regain the rich territories which the Japanese have taken, and win the war.

Australians asserted, on the basis of latest developments, that only the failure of civil as well as military co-operation between the United States and Australia can lead to the conquest of Australia.

Authoritative opinion is that the Japanese will find it difficult to take Australia They will be facing white troops in a white man's country instead of small white forces in colonies teeming with natives. The British, Australian and Dutch troops whom the Japanese faced elsewhere were better man for man They will be facing larger forces than they have faced before, with more equipment, and the men they face will be trained in latest Japanese tactics.

It is the opinion here that Japan must attack Australia, in order to ensure that it is cut off from the supplies and man power of the United States.

The Japanese have resumed aerial attacks on the northwest corner, the Darwin - Wyndham - Broome area

There is some belief that the Japanese may invade here to establish naval and air bases

Attack On Rhodes Balks Axis Plan

LONDON —(UP)— A big-scale surprise attack by British naval and air forces on the eastern Mediterranean island of Rhodes was believed today to have disrupted Axis plans for a possible spring offensive into the Near East.

Heavy damage was inflicted on the big Rhodes island base, off the Turkish coast, during the perfectly timed and coordinated air and sea bombardment.

(Axis propaganda broadcasts, acknowledging the attacks, said also that the British planes had bombed Turkish Asia Minor, including the town of Milas, and that Turkish government ordered an inquiry.)

The importance of the British attack on Rhodes was emphasized by recent reports from the Middle East that Hitler might attempt to strike through Syria or Turkey toward the Russian Caucasus oil fields and the oil fields of the Near East in an effort to join forces with Japan in India.

What Goes On In U.S.A.? Americans In Moscow Wonder

MOSCOW —(Delayed) —(AP)— Shucks, folks, what's new in the old U. S A? We're just now reading about the last world series.

It's a very strange feeling to be cut off from home news Sitting in the United States these may seem little things, but suppose you didn't know:

Weather American sidewalks are filled with uniforms, what the folks are talking about at home, whether people still are working the five-day week; whether the Rose bowl game was played; whether there will be any baseball this year, whether there is rationing at home; what ships the United States lost in the war.

Do jazz bands still play? How seriously are people taking the war? Does congress meet five days weekly or seven; do factories hum by night? What's happened to the dollar? Are there blackouts? Have there been any air raids in the United States?

Members of the American colony know virtually nothing about happenings in the U S.

Your only contact is cable. You send 20 words for about five dollars but seven words go for addresses—and you figure out how much you learn this way.

There are two foreign news sources in Moscow—the papers, which seldom if ever deal with U. S domestic news, and the British radio, which when heard, infrequently carries U. S reports.

ANGRY: Chile Indignant At Sinking; Uruguayan Craft Hit

(By United Press)

SANTIAGO—The first torpedoing of a Chilean ship aroused national indignation today, and Bernardo Ibanez, secretary-general of the powerful Chilean workers confederation and a parliamentary deputy, demanded an immediate diplomatic break with Germany, Italy and Japan and the seizure of Axis property in reprisal.

Ibanez charged that the sinking of the 1,700-ton steamer Tolten 37 miles off New York last Friday was no more than the "cowardly assassination" of 28 Chileans. The only survivor, Julio Faust, 30, was landed in New York.

Foreign Minister Juan B Rosetti summoned the German and Italian ambassadors and the Japanese minister to question them about the attack.

Uruguay Ship Sunk; 18 Are Missing

MONTEVIDEO, Uraguay—(UP)—The Uruguayan ship Montevideo had been torpedoed and 18 men are missing, it was understood today.

The Montevideo sank off the coast of Haiti, but the information did not specify whether in Caribbean or Atlantic waters.

Thirty-two crewmen were saved. The Montevideo formerly was the Italian ship Adamello, 5,872 tons, which was requisitioned by the Uruguayan government.

5,022 RICHLAND MEN WAIT THIRD DRAFT LOTTERY

Fishbowl Drawing In Capital Tonight Decides Service Fate of 9,000,000.

in the peace-time draft calls of 1940 and 1941. Many of the eligibles from this group, between 21 and 35 years of age, already have been inducted. Hershey indicated that the military and war industrial needs of the nation would require the induction of hundreds of thousands from all age groups from 20 to 44

The historic old goldfish bowl, used in the first World war and the two peace-time lotteries since 1940, was taken to Washington from Independence Hall in Philadelphia for tonight's drawing. From it, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson will draw the first number.

The capsules being used in the lottery tonight are green in color, since today is St. Patrick's day. Cabinet members and other government dignitaries who draw the first numbers will be blindfolded, but late teams of selective service workers will take over, and draw about 700 names an hour.

Although none of the new registrants will be called to the colors before June, it was understood that many of them would receive questionnaires as soon as local order lists and other details have been organized.

But thereafter, it was believed, the men receiving order numbers tonight will be called considerably faster than men already on local draft board rosters.

The procedure will be as follows:

If a local board is called upon to provide 100 men for induction, it will draw from the old order list and the new order list according to the number of registrants it has available in each group.

If, for instance, the board has 100 men available from the original list and 900 from the new list, the proportion would be nine to one. Ten men would be called from the old list and 90 from the new list.

The questionnaires to be sent the new registrants will provide detailed information on vocational skills as well as dependents. This information may form the basis for drafting men to work in war production industries, replacing those called for duty on the fighting fronts.

Local draft boards shuffled all the registration cards and assigned each one a serial number, T1, T2, etc. (The T is for the third registration). The numbers to be drawn from the goldfish bowl tonight constitute a master list of order numbers. However, each local board, in getting up its individual list, following the drawing, will disregard all numbers larger than the total number of men registered in that board

For instance, should the first serial number drawn tonight prove to be T2774 and the second number T432, Mansfield's draft boards will throw out the first master number and make No. T432 its first order number priority rated steel for various war items. Due to the diversification of our outlets, the sharp curtailment in civilian business did not materially affect our production."

Aside from the reserve for depreciation of $212,497, there was a total expenditure of $778,161 for repairs, maintenance and furnace rebuilds in maintaining the plant property and keeping it in good operation condition, the report stated.

Additions to plant and equipment in 1941 amounted to $259,622. This consisted of expenditures appropriated but not completed in 1940, and appropriations in 1941 for installations of a three-high mill, annealing equipment, locomotive, and provision for additional water supply.

Hill concluded the formal report as follows:

"We want to make special mention of the management's appreciation of the fine co-operative spirit manifested by our employes during the last year, and to advise our shareholders of the excellent character of employe-management relationship which exists."

Hill then gave the shareholders a complete picture of the scrap situation as affecting Empire's operations — a picture which he described as "not too bright." Two of Empire's six furnaces now are down due to shortage of scrap, he said, and the company hopes to maintain the other four in operation unless the scrap situation becomes worse.

He expressed fears, however, that there would be no improvement in the scrap situation unless steps are taken to release large quantities of materials now in "auto graveyards" and in homes and on farms The recent scrap collection conducted in Mansfield produced excellent results, but such collections must be continued and expanded materially to have significant results, Hill said

LESS 'SYMPATHY' FOR BLIND, PLEA MADE BY HELEN KELLER

(By International News Service)

PUEBLO, Colo —A courageous appeal for less "sympathy" for the sightless was made in Pueblo by Helen Keller, noted blind and deaf author-lecturer, on her recent speaking tour of Colorado.

Miss Keller, whom Mark Twain once linked with Napoleon as the "greatest conquerors in history" —Napoleon because of his military conquests, Miss Keller because she conquered almost insurmountable handicaps—declared that the blind suffer not so much from lack of sight as from a wrong attitude towards them by a large part of the public Many persons handicap them still further, she declared, by taking the attitude that because the blind cannot see they are unable to do anything.

"The blind are real men and women just like anybody else," Miss Keller said, "and have capabilities for constructive work and enjoyment."

She expressed gratitude that much is being done to correct this improper sympathetic attitude by the Lions club through its work for the blind of America

Miss Keller's brief address was relayed to the large audience through Miss Polly Thomson, her constant companion for nearly 30 years, but the famous woman author gave full evidence that she is quite capable of "speaking" for herself. She gave demonstrations of her ability to converse at the rate of 85 words a minute through a form of sign language. At one point, when the audience applauded, she bowed graciously She said later she had been aware of the applause because of the vibrations set up in the building

Despite the fact that much of world news is dark to her, Miss Keller showed a keen appreciation of the international situation and shook her head sorrowfully at the condition of world affairs If she had one wish to be granted, she said, instead of wishing for sight she would wish for "peace and happiness for everyone in the world"

Pays City $32.50 For 26 Parking Meter Tickets

An Ashland motorist paid $32 50 to Mansfield police yesterday for 26 parking violation tickets which he had been issued in the past 15 months.

Frank P. Joseph, who has been receiving parking tickets, most of them for overtime parking, since January, 1941, was finally picked up by police and brought to headquarters.

There, faced with imprisonment if he failed to pay for the tickets, Joseph dug down and pulled out $20 in bills and $12 30 all in nickels.

Joseph's notice was sent out with 150 others mailed to Mansfield area motorists last week. Police reported that more than 120 of the motorists have already paid for their violations

Motorists who have been having it easy for the past six weeks because few parking tickets were issued had better think twice before parking in restricted areas or overtime these days. The city has finally received its new three-wheel motorcycle which police use for checking violations.

The issuance of tickets dropped off last month when the old three-wheeler broke down and when several of the parking meters were frozen by wind, sleet, and snow.

TWO TEACHERS GIVEN LEAVES

Richard Nixon, V. O. Smith Released By Board For Duration.

Richard Nixon and Vere O. Smith, Mansfield Senior high school teachers, were granted leaves-of-absence for the duration of the war last night by the board of education to permit them to serve in the navy.

Nixon's leave became effective March 2 and Smith will leave Wednesday.

The board hired H. J. Groen of Buffalo, N. Y., to succeed Nixon as a German instructor at Senior high school. Groen holds a master's degree from Louisiana State university and has been attending Ohio State university.

Mrs W W. Mickey, Mansfield, was employed to fill the vacancy resulting from Smith's leave. She will serve on a substitute basis.

The board asked the Mansfield Civil Service commission to certify an applicant for appointment as assistant janitor at Johnny Appleseed Junior high school to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Ray Hayes.

5 More Youths From Mansfield Area Enlisted

Five more youths from the Mansfield area have enlisted in the army and have been assigned to regular training centers, Sergeant Hobart Ellifritt, officer in charge of the army recruiting station in Mansfield, reported today.

One of the group, Ernest Yeager, of 325 North Adams street, Loudonville, is the son of an army officer and was born in the Panama Canal Zone while his father was stationed there. He is 29.

The other four are Richard D. Fogle, 26, of 46½ Wise avenue; Howard E. Snyder, 20, of Bellville; Charles A. Stewart, 18, of Box 25, Iberia, and Nathaniel Dulin, 28, of 142½ North Adams street.

SOHIO

Roland Steele
636 Polk St., Sandusky, Ohio

"There's no trick to getting long tire mileage," says this Sandusky bakery man who is one of our SOHIO customers. "Anybody can do it with very little trouble. Why, I've driven 216,000 miles in six years and had only three flat tires!"

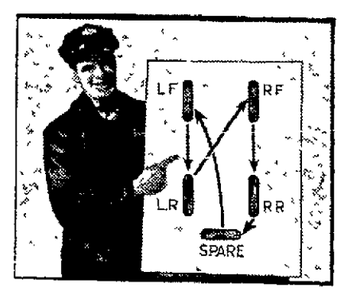
"JUST LEARN THE SIMPLE RULES FOR LONG TIRE LIFE—THEN FOLLOW THEM," says Mr. Steele. "Ask any car owner who gets 40 or 50 thousand miles from a set of tires and you'll find we all follow the same easy rules," he told our SOHIO interviewer.

"Now that proper care will be the difference between riding and walking later on, everyone should give this their attention. Of course, I can walk but I'd rather ride. Wouldn't you?"

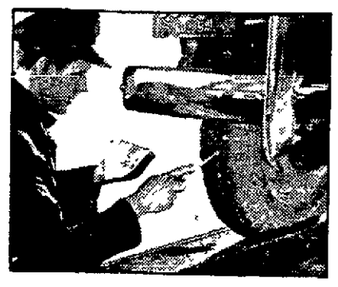
"53,000 MILES ON 1 SET OF TIRES!

Here's how I did it . . . Here's how you can do it!"

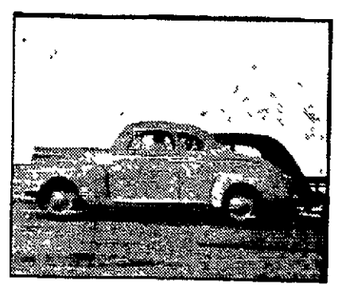
AIR PRESSURE CHECKED EVERY WEEK "I learned long ago that if tires are underinflated they wear out very fast. So every week without fail I have my SOHIO service station check the air pressure in my tires and keep it exactly correct."



TIRES SWITCHED EVERY 5,000 MILES "Tires wear fastest on the rear wheels and on the right side, of course. To get even wear from all of them, I have my wheels cross-switched every 5,000 miles. This diagram shows how I switch them."



REGULAR INSPECTION—NAILS, GLASS, STONES REMOVED "I inspect my tires every month. I take out any foreign matter that gets imbedded in the tread . . . watch for cuts and bruises. This way, I'm able to avoid a lot of tire trouble and have small injuries repaired before they do serious damage."



TAKING IT EASY "Every experienced driver knows that speed and abuse ruin tires. A big part of that 53,000 miles of service from my tires has been due to driving at moderate speeds, not bumping curbs when parking, avoiding quick starts and stops—taking a little extra care."

Speed, Bumps, and Underinflation are the three big enemies of long tire mileage.

It's up to you to avoid speed and bumps. But SOHIO will gladly take over the job of keeping your tires properly inflated. Come in every week for this free service.

With reasonable care, you, too, can get thousands of extra miles of wear from your tires! THE STANDARD OIL COMPANY (OHIO)

Tire care is another SOHIO service!

M'Arthur Arrives In Australia, Takes Over

Commands United Nations Forces As U. S. Announces AEF Has Landed In Big Numbers To Battle Japanese.

was returned to his command of the defense of India and also charged with the defense of Burma.

MacArthur also was accompanied on his flight to Australia by his chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland; Brig. Gen. Harold H. George of the air corps, and several other staff officers, the war department said.

"He will be the supreme commander in that region including the Philippine Islands in accordance with the request of the Australian government," it was said.

"On Feb. 22 the president directed Gen MacArthur to transfer his headquarters from the Philippines to Australia as soon as the necessary arrangements could be made. Gen MacArthur requested that he be permitted to delay in carrying out the order until he could perfect arrangements within his command in the Philippines. This delay was authorized by the president."

War department spokesmen emphasized that MacArthur's transfer—in the midst of one of the most dramatic stands in history, made against numerical odds of 20 to one or more—does not mean that the battle of Batan is regarded as lost.

Maj. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, close friend of MacArthur and his right-hand man in the Philippines, will carry on against the Japanese on the jungle battlefront of Batan, a spokesman said.

Wainwright, a cavalry officer, is a former commandant of Fort Myers, Va. He is regarded as one of the army's shrewdest students of modern warfare, as official dispatches from the Philippines during the past three months have shown.

MacArthur, it was believed, undoubtedly will lose no time in putting into action his hard-hitting tactics which stymied and took a heavy toll of the Japanese on Batan, finally forcing a shift in commanders-in-chief.

MacArthur's shift to Australia, according to the war department communique, was made at specific request of the Australian government which during the past week has made increasingly stronger demands that the United States take the lead in the defense of the continent "down under."

In Australia, he will have at his disposal fresh and well-equipped American Doughboys of the newly arrived A. E. F. as well as Australian, Dutch and British forces.

The war department provided no details as to how MacArthur made his successful flight from the Philippines to Australia — across a dangerous route where his plane was subject to Japanese attack at any moment. Nor did it indicate where he will set up his headquarters.

Today's announcement revealed that President Roosevelt directed MacArthur to go to Australia two weeks before the Japanese sent a new commander-in-chief into the Philippines in an effort to crush MacArthur's resistance.

On March 9 the war department reported that Gen. Masaharu Homma, the Japanese commander, was believed to have committee hara-kiri in the Manila hotel to escape disgrace for his failure to knock out the MacArthur forces on Batan peninsula. The next day it was revealed that Homma had been replaced by Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, conqueror of Malaya and Singapore and Japan's most famous general.

Although Yamashita was expected to launch an all-out attack on MacArthur the Batan front has been ominously quiet for two weeks, presumably while Yamashita awaits the arrival of aerial reinforcements before launching an offensive.

MacArthur's elevation to the supreme command in Australia climaxes the most colorful career in modern U. S. military history. He has gone through the entire gamut of military honors, rising in 27 years from a lieutenant to the United States' army's youngest chief of staff.

All his life he has been identified with the Philippines where he saw his first overseas service in 1903.

MacArthur's shift heightened enthusiasm stirred by the war department's disclosure last night that "considerable numbers of American troops have arrived in Australia.

The new air and ground forces announced to have arrived in Australia constitute the second "American expeditionary force" officially announced to have landed on foreign shores. The first arrived in North Ireland on Jan. 26.

The surprise announcement came several days after hints here and abroad that large convoys of American troops and war materials were en route to the southwest Pacific. The troops arrived in the midst of growing demands among the Allies for an "offensive" in that area.

American officials were certain that the news that the "Yanks are here" would cheer Australians who have been preparing grimly for an expected all-out offensive by the enemy. The Australian watchword is "work, fight, or perish."

There were no details available regarding the American troops, not even the name of their commander. The communique, issued shortly before midnight, said only:

"The secretary of war announces that units of the United States army, including both air and ground troops in considerable numbers, are now in Australia. No information as to strength, designation of units, nor location is at present available for publication."

Australia long has looked to the United States for reinforcements for their last ditch stand against the Japanese. Her leaders have emphasized the importance to the United Nations of holding that continent as a possible springboard against the enemy when it is time for an attack. Australia also is an important link in the sea supply route across the Pacific from the United States. Loss of it would make it necessary to route all shipments to India and the Near East around Africa.

It has been known for some time that American aviators have been in Australia. They were in Java during the early stages of the battle for the Dutch colonial empire and have inflicted with their big bombers and fighters heavy losses on the enemy.

However, informed observers cautioned today that Japan's victories have cost her relatively little in ships, planes and manpower and that it would be ridiculous at this stage of the struggle to anticipate "exhaustion" of the enemy.

With the possible exception of merchant ships sunk or crippled, Japan's losses probably can be replaced within a few months if she can obtain a "breathing spell" and consolidate her gains, the American council of the Institute of Pacific relations reported.

But the growing Allied strength in and around Australia, which now includes American expeditionary forces and constantly arriving American aerial reinforcements, may deny the Japanese any such "breathing spell" and force them to drive on against Australia.

Seek To Mass Huge Force In Australia

MELBOURNE, Australia—(UP)—Allied commanders are seeking to mass in Australia a great defensive and offensive force, it was understood today as Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson announced at Washington the arrival of United States forces on this continent.

Well informed sources said it was the intention of the Allied commands first to stop the Japanese when they attack on Australia and then to move out to regain the rich territories which the Japanese have taken, and win the war.

Australians asserted, on the basis of latest developments, that only the failure of civil as well as military co-operation between the United States and Australia can lead to the conquest of Australia.

Authoritative opinion is that the Japanese will find it difficult to take Australia. They will be facing white troops in a white man's country instead of small white forces in colonies teeming with natives. The British, Australian and Dutch troops whom the Japanese faced elsewhere were better man for man. They will be facing larger forces than they have faced before, with more equipment, and the men they face will be trained in latest Japanese tactics.

It is the opinion here that Japan must attack Australia, in order to ensure that it is cut off from the supplies and man power of the United States.

The Japanese have resumed aerial attacks on the northwest corner, the Darwin - Wyndham - Broome area.

There is some belief that the Japanese may invade here, to establish naval and air bases.

Australia Denies Landing Rumor

CANBERRA—(INS)—The Australian government today flatly denied rumors of new Japanese landings on New Guinea island.

"Contrary to rumors," said an official communique, "there has been no fresh Japanese landing in the New Guinea or Papua areas."

Japs Claim Eleven Allied Ships Sunk

TOKYO—(By Official Japanese Wireless)—(INS)—Imperial headquarters claimed today that Japanese submarines have sunk 11 United Nations ships totalling 81,000 tons in operations to date in the coastal waters of India and Burma.

The newspaper Asahi reported several hundred United Nations troops, supported by light tanks, staged an unsuccessful attack southeast of Laketoba on Sumatra island in the Netherlands East Indies.

Reports Japs Shift Troops Toward Russia

CHUNGKING, China—(AP)—A Chinese army spokesman, restating the Chinese contention that an early Japanese attack on Russia is probable, said today that two Japanese divisions had been transferred recently from Korea to Manuchukuo while Japanese troops in the southern, or Japanese, half of Sakhalin island had been moved northward toward the Russian border.

He told a press conference that Chinese military intelligence reports also had told of a meeting of district chiefs of staff of armed forces in Manchukuo.

The spokesman expressed confidence, however, that the Russians were fully alert to the dangers of a sudden Japanese assault.

Attack On Rhodes Balks Axis Plan

LONDON —(UP)— A big-scale surprise attack by British naval and air forces on the eastern Mediterranean island of Rhodes was believed today to have disrupted Axis plans for a possible spring offensive into the Near East.

Heavy damage was inflicted on the big Rhodes island base, off the Turkish coast, during the perfectly timed and coordinated air and sea bombardment.

(Axis propaganda broadcasts, acknowledging the attacks, said also that the British planes had bombed Turkish Asia Minor, including the town of Milas, and that Turkish government ordered an inquiry.)

The importance of the British attack on Rhodes was emphasized by recent reports from the Middle East that Hitler might attempt to strike through Syria or Turkey toward the Russian Caucasus oil fields and the oil fields of the Near East in an effort to join forces with Japan in India.

Axis Forces Suffer In Libya Skirmish

CAIRO—(INS)—A sharp skirmish on the Libyan front in which Axis forces suffered casualties was announced by the British Middle East command today.

The British communique also stated that British planes successfully encountered enemy activity over the forward region of the front.

"There was increased enemy movement in the forward area yesterday," the communique stated.

JEFFERSON —(UP)— Nick Nemick, 42-year-old Seattle automobile mechanic, today faced one to 20 years imprisonment after a jury of seven women and five men found him guilty of first degree manslaughter in connection with the slaying of his mother, Mrs. Catherine Nemick, 62.

The jury acquitted Mrs. Agnes Nemick, 32, who has been accused jointly with her husband. The jurors deliberated 30 hours before reporting late yesterday.

What Goes On In U.S.A.? Americans In Moscow Wonder

MOSCOW —(Delayed)— (AP)— Shucks, folks, what's new in the old U. S. A? We're just now reading about the last world series.

It's a very strange feeling to be cut off from home news. Sitting in the United States these may seem little things, but suppose you didn't know.

Weather. American sidewalks are filled with uniforms, what the folks are talking about at home, whether people still are working the five-day week; whether the Rose bowl game was played; whether there will be any baseball this year; whether there is rationing at home, what ships the United States lost in the war.

Do jazz bands still play? How seriously are people taking the war? Does congress meet five days weekly or seven; do factories hum by night? What's happened to the dollar? Are there blackouts? Have there been any air raids in the United States?

Members of the American colony know virtually nothing about happenings in the U. S.

Your only contact is cable. You send 20 words for about five dollars but seven words go for addresses—and you figure out how much you learn this way.

There are two foreign news sources in Moscow—the papers, which seldom if ever deal with U. S. domestic news, and the British radio, which when heard, infrequently carries U. S. reports.

BUCYRUS JUDGE EXPLAINS STAND

Says He Acquitted Driver Because He Slowed Down For Passing.

BUCYRUS — (UP) — Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl of Bucyrus who acquitted Howard A. Traul, Bellefontaine attorney, of a charge of driving 84 miles an hour at Marysville last week, explained his decision today.

Ahl said that testimony showed that Traul slowed down when he passed three automobiles and when he entered Marysville. He was driving at 2 a. m. when traffic was light and his car and tires were found to be in good condition, according to Ahl.

A jury disagreed in Traul's first trial and he requested trial before a judge.

ANGRY: Chile Indignant At Sinking; Uruguayan Craft Hit

(By United Press)

SANTIAGO—The first torpedoing of a Chilean ship aroused national indignation today, and Bernardo Ibanez, secretary-general of the powerful Chilean workers confederation and a parliamentary deputy, demanded an immediate diplomatic break with Germany, Italy and Japan and the seizure of Axis property in reprisal.

Ibanez charged that the sinking of the 1,700-ton steamer Tolten 37 miles off New York last Friday was no more than the "cowardly assassination" of 28 Chileans. The only survivor, Julio Faust, 30, was landed in New York.

Foreign Minister Juan B. Rosetti summoned the German and Italian ambassadors and the Japanese minister to question them about the attack.

Uruguay Ship Sunk; 18 Are Missing

MONTEVIDEO, Uraguay—(UP)—The Uruguayan ship Montevideo had been torpedoed and 18 men are missing, it was understood today.

The Montevideo sank off the coast of Haiti, but the information did not specify whether in Caribbean or Atlantic waters.

Thirty-two crewmen were saved. The Montevideo formerly was the Italian ship Adamello, 5,872 tons, which was requisitioned by the Uruguayan government.

5,022 RICHLAND MEN WAIT THIRD DRAFT LOTTERY

Fishbowl Drawing In Capital Tonight Decides Service Fate of 9,000,000.

in the peace-time draft calls of 1940 and 1941. Many of the eligibles from this group, between 21 and 35 years of age, already have been inducted. Hershey indicated that the military and war industrial needs of the nation would require the induction of hundreds of thousands from all age groups from 20 to 44.

The historic old goldfish bowl, used in the first World war and the two peace-time lotteries since 1940, was taken to Washington from Independence Hall in Philadelphia for tonight's drawing. From it, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson will draw the first number.

The capsules being used in the lottery tonight are green in color, since today is St. Patrick's day. Cabinet members and other government dignitaries who draw the first numbers will be blindfolded, but later teams of selective service workers will take over, and draw about 700 names an hour.

Although none of the new registrants will be called to the colors before June, it was understood that many of them would receive questionnaires as soon as local order lists and other details have been organized.

But thereafter, it was believed, the men receiving order numbers tonight will be called considerably faster than men already on local draft board rosters.

The procedure will be as follows:

If a local board is called upon to provide 100 men for induction, it will draw from the old order list and the new order list according to the number of registrants it has available in each group.

If, for instance, the board has 100 men available from the original list and 900 from the new list, the proportion would be nine to one. Ten men would be called from the old list and 90 from the new list.

The questionnaires to be sent the new registrants will provide detailed information on vocational skills as well as dependents. This information may form the basis for drafting men to work in war production industries, replacing those called for duty on the fighting fronts.

Local draft boards shuffled all the registration cards and assigned each one a serial number, T1, T2, etc. (The T is for the third registration). The numbers to be drawn from the goldfish bowl tonight constitute a master list of order numbers. However, each local board, in getting up its individual list, following the drawing, will disregard all numbers larger than the total number of men registered in that board.

For instance, should the first serial number drawn tonight prove to be T2774 and the second number T432, Mansfield's draft boards will throw out the first master number and make No. T432 its first order number.

priority rated steel for various war items. Due to the diversification of our outlets, the sharp curtailment in civilian business did not materially affect our production."

Aside from the reserve for depreciation of $212,497, there was a total expenditure of $778,161 for repairs, maintenance and furnace rebuilds in maintaining the plant property and keeping it in good operation condition, the report stated.

Additions to plant and equipment in 1941 amounted to $259,622. This consisted of expenditures appropriated but not completed in 1940, and appropriations in 1941 for installations of a three-high mill, annealing equipment, locomotive, and provision for additional water supply.

Hill concluded the formal report as follows:

"We want to make special mention of the management's appreciation of the fine co-operative spirit manifested by our employes during the last year, and to advise our shareholders of the excellent character of employe-management relationship which exists."

Hill then gave the shareholders a complete picture of the scrap situation as affecting Empire's operations — a picture which he described as "not too bright." Two of Empire's six furnaces now are down due to shortage of scrap, he said, and the company hopes to maintain the other four in operation unless the scrap situation becomes worse.

He expressed fears, however, that there would be no improvement in the scrap situation unless steps are taken to release large quantities of materials now in "auto graveyards" and in homes and on farms. The recent scrap collection conducted in Mansfield produced excellent results, but such collections must be continued and expanded materially to have significant results, Hill said.

PARK RECEIVES PLAY EQUIPMENT

Presentation Made To New Association By City Board of Education.

The Mansfield board of education last night presented the playground equipment at the Hedges school to the John Todd Memorial Park association for use at the new park near the children's home.

The board acted after the Hedges Parent-Teacher association authorized the removal of the equipment. Supt. W. L. Miller said most of the schools' Playground equipment is being turned over to parks since the equipment does not permit group recreational activities as set up under the schools' new physical education program.

The board granted the Roseland Grange permission to use the abandoned Roseland school as a meeting place for another year at a rental of one dollar per month.

The Richland county group affiliated with the national nutrition program received the board's permission to use a room in John Simpson Junior high school for meetings on Wednesday nights

LESS 'SYMPATHY' FOR BLIND, PLEA MADE BY HELEN KELLER

(By International News Service)

PUEBLO, Colo —A courageous appeal for less "sympathy" for the sightless was made in Pueblo by Helen Keller, noted blind and deaf author-lecturer, on her recent speaking tour of Colorado.

Miss Keller, whom Mark Twain once linked with Napoleon as the "greatest conquerors in history" —Napoleon because of his military conquests, Miss Keller because she conquered almost insurmountable handicaps—declared that the blind suffer not so much from lack of sight as from a wrong attitude towards them by a large part of the public. Many persons handicap them still further, she declared, by taking the attitude that because the blind cannot see they are unable to do anything.

"The blind are real men and women just like anybody else," Miss Keller said, "and have capabilities for constructive work and enjoyment."

She expressed gratitude that much is being done to correct this improper sympathetic attitude by the Lions club through its work for the blind of America

Miss Keller's brief address was relayed to the large audience through Miss Polly Thomson, her constant companion for nearly 30 years, but the famous woman author gave full evidence that she is quite capable of "speaking" for herself. She gave demonstrations of her ability to converse at the rate of 85 words a minute through a form of sign language. At one point, when the audience applauded, she bowed graciously. She said later she had been aware of the applause because of the vibrations set up in the building.

Despite the fact that much of world news is dark to her, Miss Keller showed a keen appreciation of the international situation and shook her head sorrowfully at the condition of world affairs If she had one wish to be granted, she said, instead of wishing for sight she would wish for "peace and happiness for everyone in the world."

Pays City $32.50 For 26 Parking Meter Tickets

An Ashland motorist paid $32 30 to Mansfield police yesterday for 26 parking violation tickets which he had been issued in the past 15 months.

Frank P. Joseph, who has been receiving parking tickets, most of them for overtime parking, since January, 1941, was finally picked up by police and brought to headquarters

There, faced with imprisonment if he failed to pay for the tickets, Joseph dug down and pulled out $20 in bills and $12 30 all in nickels.

Joseph's notice was sent out with 150 others mailed to Mansfield area motorists last week. Police reported that more than 120 of the motorists have already paid for their violations.

Motorists who have been having it easy for the past six weeks because few parking tickets were issued had better think twice before parking in restricted areas or overtime these days. The city has finally received its new three-wheel motorcycle which police use for checking violations.

The issuance of tickets dropped off last month when the old three-wheeler broke down and when several of the parking meters were frozen by wind, sleet, and snow.

TWO TEACHERS GIVEN LEAVES

Richard Nixon, V. O. Smith Released By Board For Duration.

Richard Nixon and Vere O. Smith, Mansfield Senior high school teachers, were granted leaves-of-absence for the duration of the war last night by the board of education to permit them to serve in the navy.

Nixon's leave became effective March 2 and Smith will leave Wednesday.

The board hired H. J. Groen of Buffalo, N. Y., to succeed Nixon as a German instructor at Senior high school. Groen holds a master's degree from Louisiana State university and has been attending Ohio State university.

Mrs W. W. Mickey, Mansfield, was employed to fill the vacancy resulting from Smith's leave. She will serve on a substitute basis.

The board asked the Mansfield Civil Service commission to certify an applicant for appointment as assistant janitor at Johnny Appleseed Junior high school to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Ray Hayes.

5 More Youths From Mansfield Area Enlisted

"There's no trick to getting long tire mileage," says this Sandusky bakery man who is one of our SOHIO customers. "Anybody can do it with very little trouble. Why, I've driven 216,000 miles in six years and had only three flat tires!"

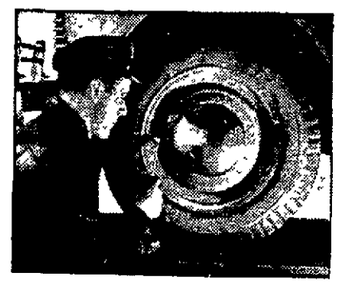
"JUST LEARN THE SIMPLE RULES FOR LONG TIRE LIFE—THEN FOLLOW THEM," says Mr. Steele. "Ask any car owner who gets 40 or 50 thousand miles from a set of tires and you'll find we all follow the same easy rules," he told our SOHIO interviewer.

"Now that proper care will be the difference between riding and walking later on, everyone should give this their attention. Of course, I can walk but I'd rather ride. Wouldn't you?"

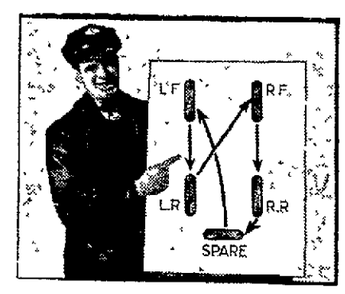
"53,000 MILES ON 1 SET OF TIRES!

Here's how I did it . . .

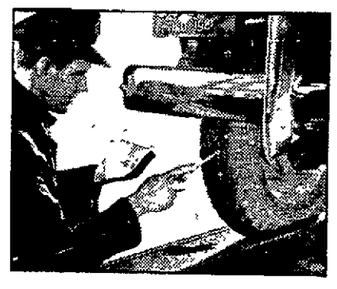
Here's how you can do it!"



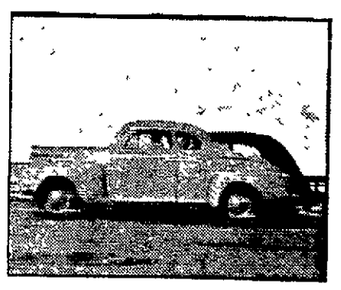
AIR PRESSURE CHECKED EVERY WEEK "I learned long ago that if tires are underinflated they wear out very fast. So every week without fail I have my SOHIO service station check the air pressure in my tires and keep it exactly correct."



TIRES SWITCHED EVERY 5,000 MILES "Tires wear fastest on the rear wheels and on the right side, of course. To get even wear from all of them, I have my wheels cross-switched every 5,000 miles. This diagram shows how I switch them."



REGULAR INSPECTION—NAILS, GLASS, STONES REMOVED "I inspect my tires every month. I take out any foreign matter that gets imbedded in the tread . . . watch for cuts and bruises. This way, I'm able to avoid a lot of tire trouble and have small injuries repaired before they do serious damage."



TAKING IT EASY "Every experienced driver knows that speed and abuse ruin tires. A big part of that 53,000 miles of service from my tires has been due to driving at moderate speeds, not bumping curbs when parking, avoiding quick starts and stops—taking a little extra care."

Speed, Bumps, and Underinflation are the three big enemies of long tire mileage.

It's up to you to avoid speed and bumps. But SOHIO will gladly take over the job of keeping your tires properly inflated. Come in every week for this free service.

With reasonable care, you, too, can get thousands of extra miles of wear from your tires! THE STANDARD OIL COMPANY (OHIO)

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO TUESDAY, MARCH 17, 1942.

Fireside campaigning is good practice, as long as you don't start ordering the generals around.

Can you remember when some motorists couldn't stand to hear a strange squeak or rattle in the car?

Now that your income tax report is out of the way, have you remembered to file your personal tax report at the court house?—and there's also the real estate taxes to be paid by March 20, which can be seen just around the corner.

Strip Civilian Defense of Nonsense

LITTLE satisfaction is gained from the statement of James M. Landis, director of the Office of Civilian Defense, that no OCD money is being spent to promote the indoor and outdoor sports program for which more than sixty national "co-ordinators" have been appointed.

If, as Mr. Landis says, no public funds are being spent on this elaborate and expensive set-up, it then becomes quite apparent that OCD is being made the vehicle for promoting scores of selfishly interested enterprises that are attempting to use OCD as a patriotic tie-up.

This became obvious in the case of bowling "co-ordinator," with quick announcement that the plan contemplated enlistment of 25,000,000 people in the ranks of bowlers—which would undoubtedly make a strong army if the nation could be bowled to victory.

But it now appears that 25,000,000 bowlers would be only a small part of the OCD sports forces. Other millions would be drawn to training for golf, badminton, tennis, ping pong, archery, miniature golf, horseshoe pitching, roller and ice skating, and dozens of other outdoor and indoor sports and recreations.

All of these things have many adherents, and each has an entirely proper place within its field, but there is no reason why they should be foisted upon an already impatient public as "civilian defense" activities or given the prominence of OCD association as a part of the national war effort.

What Mr. Landis may not know is that the legitimate work of civilian defense over the country is being seriously retarded by the fantastic idiocies that have been tacked onto OCD, and it is as Senator Harry F. Byrd, Democrat, of Virginia, says: "Unless the Office of Civilian Defense is stripped very promptly of such nonsensical activities, what little respect remains over the country for this organization will quickly disappear."

Find Time for Relaxation

WHAT about taking a vacation this year? What about taking "time out from work—even if it is war work—for amusement, entertainment, sports and relaxation?

These are questions that are puzzling many people just now—people who are seriously concerned about the war and and who want to do everything possible to help in the national war effort.

President Roosevelt touched on this subject at a press conference this week when he read a prepared statement in which he urged people to relieve the strain of war and work by "taking part in or attending various sports, motion pictures, music, the drama, picnics, et cetera."

While much of this year's recreation program will depend on individual decision, and "it is of course obvious," as the president said, "that the war effort is the primary task of everybody in the nation," his formula gives the impression of soundness.

Vacations, even periods of relaxation, will necessarily have to be adapted this year to restrictions and requirement for longer hours of harder work, but careful budgeting of time will open the way to the diversification of interests which the president recommends.

All Must Help Pay for War

THE VAST government deficits built up during the depression were largely met by selling government securities to the banks. They were paid for with the savings of the people.

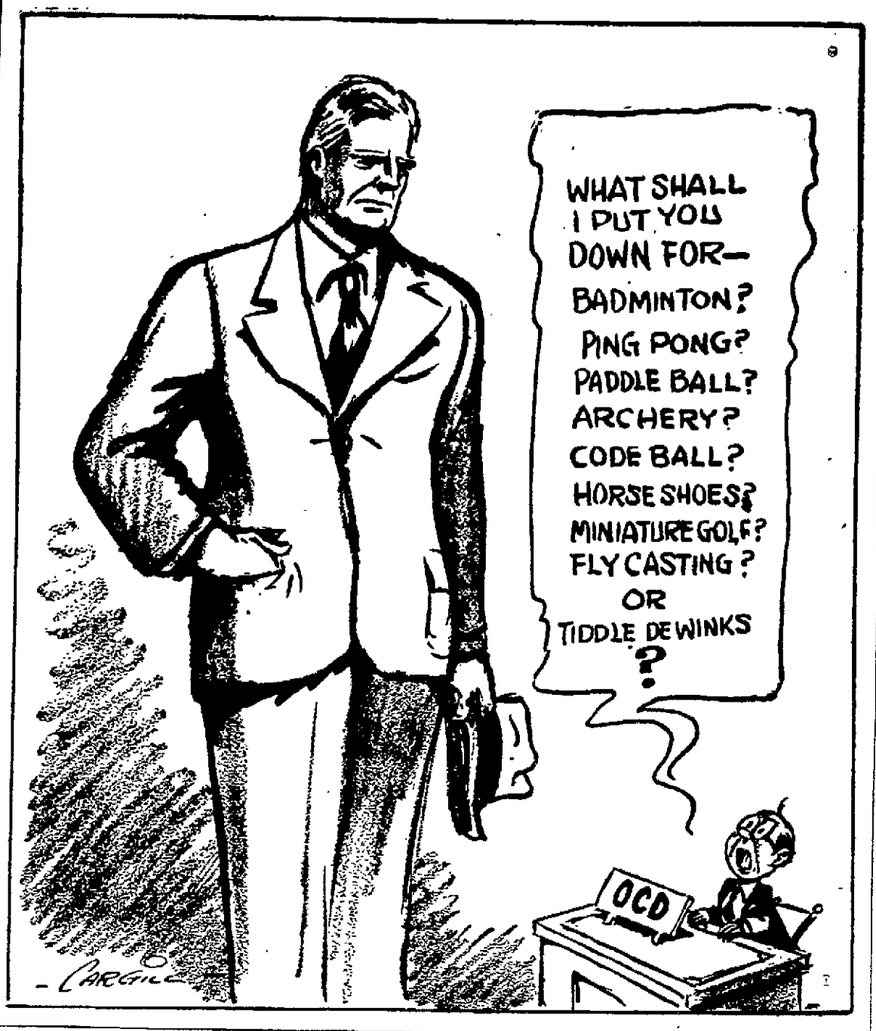
A government bond is the safest of all investments. The whole wealth of the country stands behind it. But—and every citizen should realize this—we cannot meet the vast deficits which will be built up during this war by simply selling bonds to the banks in limitless quantities.

If sales of government bonds to banks were continued on the depression scale, private banking would in time virtually disappear. The banks, to all intents and purposes, would become a branch of government. And that in itself would be a long step toward the destruction of individual freedom.

This war must be paid for by all the people. They must pay for it in higher taxes. They must pay for it by buying, individually, defense bonds and other government obligations. They may have to pay for it with forced savings. The ability of banks to absorb the load is not limitless.

A rubbish pile and patience can do wonders. This has just been shown by an Illinois town, where a two-day drive for old license plates brought in 2,427 plates, weighing 1,820 pounds. Out of this came enough steel to make 300 of the new Garand rifles.

JUST WHAT IS THIS "CIVILIAN DEFENSE"?



WHAT SHALL I PUT YOU DOWN FOR— BADMINTON? PING PONG? PADDLE BALL? ARCHERY? CODE BALL? HORSE SHOES? MINIATURE GOLF? FLY CASTING? OR TIDDLE DE WINKS ?

South American Mail Censored

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

UNCLE SAM'S wartime secret service's activity isn't so very noticeable here in the United States. Maybe it's noticeable in areas where populations of Axis origin, not only folk actually naturalized here, but down into two or three generations of American birth, are pretty thick.

I rather fancy that we're almost too suspicious of these descendents. Some of them need watching, but quite a lot of thoroughly Americanized Germans and Italians unquestionably are outright anti-Nazi and anti-Fascist, and I know a few fully assimilated Japs who are as anxious as anybody to serve against the Mikado.

It seems an injustice not to discriminate between a probably smallish proportion of sure-enough enemy agents and a much larger proportion of good citizens, who merely happen to be of Axis ancestry, through no fault of their own. In fact, if we don't antagonize them, this latter kind should be especially helpful to us, in spotting hostile alien operations in our midst, and tipping us off.

A dyed-in-the-wool American though, with a skimpy exception, here and there, like Rep. Hamilton Fish's clerk, George Hill, doesn't sense that he's being watched more closely than in normal times.

Nevertheless, I've noticed that mail I receive from Latin America is beginning to be overhauled by our censorship.

Watching Foreign Mail.

"Examined by 3920" is the hint I discover on my last communication from Venezuela. The envelope was neatly slit open and that little tag was nicely pasted on to reseal it. It was just a perfectly harmless official press release from the Caracas government, such as those our own government issues daily, by the ream, and the censor passed it all right. Still, the circumstances that it was tapped signifies that we finally have started to keep an eye on our foreign mail.

Considering how friendly we are with Latin America, it may not be obvious, at first thought, why communication between our new world countries requires particularly close scrutiny.

Yet there IS a sound reason for it.

Swapping of news between here and Venezuela or Brazil or Argentina should be as unrestricted as swapping between Washington and New York or Chicago, provided the swap really is between the Americas. But may not the stuff actually be dope that the Axis powers are trying to snoop into the United States BY WAY of the Latin republics?

Our censorship wants to peek into it and see.

Spain's regarded as the clearing house for such a service.

Director Archibald MacLeish's office of facts and figures went into the subject in detail in a recent report.

Mail from Germany, Japan, Italy, or any of the countries that Axis forces have overrun naturally is suspected as soon as it arrives in one of Uncle Sam's postoffices. Mail directly from Spain is looked at askance, too, for Spanish Dictator Franco's notoriously pro-Axis. The Spanish people generally aren't so considered, but he is, and he's the boss right now in Madrid.

The out-and-out Axis isn't popular in the western hemisphere, but Spain's too close a relative of theirs not to be moderately so, languages and traditions being so much alike.

Axis propaganda access to the United States via Latin America via Spain therefore is the totalitarian objective.

Man About Manhattan

Dimmed White Way

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — A great many people hereabouts work at a defense plant located a number of miles from New York. This plant manufactures various types of munitions and high explosives, and among these is smokeless powder.

One of the employes of the plant was describing the precautionary measures taken by plant officials to cope with any emergency. There is ample protection for employes even in the event of an all-out air raid . . . ample, that is, for everybody except the smokeless powder boys.

The smokeless powder department is so barricaded and protected that the rest of the plant could be bombed to obliteration and they would not be harmed. However, if anything like a stray spark happened to set off all that powder, neither air raid shelters, cellars, stone walls nor gouged out holes in solid cement would help them. They would all go up in one magnificent puff.

BOB CHRISTENBERRY finds himself in a peculiar dilemma. He is president of the Broadway association, and, as such, the brighter the bright lights play along the Great White Way the better he likes it.

On the other hand, Bob happens to be the manager of the Astor Hotel. Just across from the Astor is one of the great land marks of New York, a fantastic electric sign in which electric fish swim and open their eyes and make round O's with their mouths while exuding bubbles. This sign advertises a well known brand of chewing gum which is manufactured by the man who owns the Chicago Cubs.

Millions have gaped at this sign, startled by its immensity and delighted with the drollery of its absurd characters. Now here is the key to the Christenberry dilemma. The brighter the street lights glow around a hotel, the cheaper its rooms must be. Therefore, rooms facing on Broadway which are bathed in the light of an electrical advertisement, however attractive, command lesser prices than those which face only the light of the stars.

Now the great chewing gum sign is coming down. Its fishy characters will make bubbles no more. Reason: to conserve power. All of which makes Bob Christenberry, president of the Broadway association, very, very sad. But it makes Bob Christenberry, the hotel manager, very, very happy. Now he can get more money for his Broadway rooms.

MEL GRAFT, author of a well known comic strip, sends me a mysterious package from Eustis, Florida. Oranges? No. Grapefruit? No. You wouldn't guess so I'd better explain that Mel spends most of his spare time fishing.

When he gets a big one he paints pictures of it and sends them to his friends. When I opened this box it contained the head of a black bass that was as large as a cabbage. It was stuffed. I never saw such a bass. I appreciate the gesture, but he just as easily could have sent me a picture. After all, as some one has well said, sending another stuffed head to New York is like carrying coals to New Castle.

Believe Lewis Is Setting Stage For Break With CIO Leadership

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It looks as if John L. Lewis is getting ready to do another bolt act.

Significant under cover signs indicate that the miner czar is preparing the stage for a walk out of the CIO, which he took the leading role in founding six years ago.

The United Mine Workers, which Lewis rules with an iron fist, has not paid its CIO per capita tax for several months, and he has been summoning UMW leaders before him and "ultimatuming" them with a blunt demand that they declare themselves for him or Phil Murray, president of the CIO and vice president of the UMW.

Also last Thursday, in Lewis' office, there was a meeting of UMW executive board members that was steeped in mystery.

The inside story is that Lewis first sent out notices for a secret board meeting with the intention of having it vote approval (1) of the UMW quitting the CIO, and (2) declaring vacant Murray's office as UMW vice president and the West Virginia district presidency held by Van Bittner, a veteran UMW chief and close friend of Murray.

But word of the proposed meeting leaked to newsmen who began asking Lewis questions about it. Thereupon, according to insiders, he hastily dropped his original plan for a head-on showdown and resorted to strategy.

At his behest the board voted that a special committee of five be sent to West Virginia to investigate alleged operator violations of the UMW contract and "certain other matters." Insiders say the investigation is a smoke screen to mask the real purpose of the committee which is to axe Bittner and to torpedo a big State miner rally that Murray is scheduled to address.

Me Or Else.

CIO INSIDERS tell a sensational story of Lewis' tactics in pressuring UMW leaders into line.

It is related that he summoned Tom Kennedy, little, mild-mannered veteran UMW secretary-treasurer, and bluntly demanded, "Tom, you've got to choose between Phil Murray and me."

Stunned for a moment, Kennedy finally regained his breath and protested.

"That isn't fair, John," he said. "You ought not to do that to me. This isn't a question of personalities. It's a question of principles. After all you, Phil and I have worked hard together for the things we thought were right for many years."

Lewis, it is said, silently chewed his big cigar for a few moments and then fixing Kennedy with an icy stare said, "Yes, we have been together a long time. But that's over now. You've got to choose, and right now."

The story ends there. But it is significantly pointed out that Kennedy was at last Thursday's board meeting that "unanimously" voted the mysterious five-man "investigating" committee.

Note: Hand-picked Lewis organizers made a strenuous effort to split up the powerful UMW Local 12165 in New York into a number of smaller separate units, but were overwhelmingly defeated. It was flatly charged that the purpose of the maneuver was to give Lewis more votes at the UMW convention to enable him to put over the ouster of Murray and the walk-out from the CIO. Shortly after Lewis' setback, Sam Machlin, leader of the Local for a number of years and chiefly responsible for its growth into one of the strongest in the country, was fired by Kathryn Lewis, daughter and right-hand lieutenant of John L. When the Local still refused to submit to Lewis' demands, he followed up Machlin's dismissal by revoking the Local's charter, which enabled him to seize its records and funds and put his own henchmen in control.

Clash With Murray.

THE REPORTED crackdown on Kennedy set CIO circles buzzing, but it didn't hold a candle to a personal Lewis-Murray encounter that followed.

This meeting took place unexpectedly when the two men ran into each other in a Washington hotel lobby. According to eyewitnesses, Lewis immediately stalked up to Murray and rasped out, "Phil Murray, you owe me an apology."

"If anyone has any apologizing to do, John," Murray replied quietly, "it's you."

Glaring, Lewis pushed his face close to Murray's and for a moment onlookers say they feared there would be blows. But Murray calmly returned Lewis' angry look and then again quietly said, "If ever there was a man who should be ashamed of what he has done, it is you, John."

With that Murray turned on his heel and walked away.

Bouncer Henderson.

NEXT to Secretary Harold Ickes, Price Controller Leon Henderson is probably the toughest talker in the administration. When he thinks the situation demands it, he slings a mean line.

But that isn't the only thing he can sling. Hefty and agile, Henderson also can throw his weight around with vigor—as a caller learned to his discomfiture the other day.

The man came into Henderson's outer office and asked to see him. Told that Henderson was busy with a staff conference, the stranger announced he would wait. A secretary then inquired what he wanted to see Henderson about. The visitor refused to say and plumped himself into a chair, where he waited for over an hour.

Then, as the staff meeting broke up and before anyone could stop him, he rushed into Henderson's office.

"Who are you?" asked Henderson.

"Never mind who I am," was the answer, "I want to see Henderson."

"What about?"

"That's my business."

"It may be your business," said Henderson, grabbing the stranger by the collar and the seat of the pants and propelling him forcibly toward the door, "but no one comes into my office without first stating his business. Hereafter you wait until you are invited before you come in here."

Merry-Go-Round.

LABOR insiders say that a secret tie-up between Dubinsky, ambitious little boss of the International Ladies Garment Workers, and John L. Lewis was behind the attack on Sidney Hillman on the charge that Hillman's union, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, had a monopoly on army uniform contracts. Shortly before the attack, the attorney of the ILGW was hired by Lewis as the lawyer of one of his unions. . . . For the first time since the war began, Axis output of vital combat supplies fell behind that of the U. S. and British Empire in January and February. In other words, during the first two months of 1942, the U. S. and British outproduced the Axis on planes, tanks, munitions, steel and iluminum.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The Capital in wartime: Much has been written about the hordes of new federal workers coming to Washington, but as paradoxical as it may seem, one of the government's minor headaches comes from those handfuls who are constantly leaving.

These are the girls and boys who are brought here from states, find the confusion, the overcrowding, the poor housing conditions, the high cost of living, and perhaps above all, the loneliness, too much for them and pack up and hit for home.

The point is that the departure nearly always occurs after a few months, just when the new employe has been effectively "broken in" and is able to perform his new job efficiently.

Every employer knows the expense, confusion and loss of efficiency in his business resulting from employe turnover. In the case of the government, the expense alone runs into many thousands of dollars a month.

THIS is one of the reasons why the government maintains a vast recreational program, with athletics indoors and out, dances and dramatics all sponsored by the departmental recreational units.

It is one reason why the government is now spending money to aid new workers in getting suitable housing accommodations. And it is one of the chief reasons why federal officials have never minimized the discomforts and difficulties of working and living in wartime Washington.

That is why, too, that in spite of the paper saving campaign, the recreation service of the metropolitan defense area is coming out with a new government employe magazine, "The Federal Communique," designed to inform workers of ways and means of making their lives in the wartime capital a little less onerous. The magazine won't be for free and no effort will be made to sell it at cost—but all profits will go into the employes' recreational fund.

CONGRESSMAN JOSHUA L. JOHNS of Wisconsin wrapped it up in a nutshell the other day, when he told house colleagues and the galleries: "For this fiscal year up to March 4, we have been spending an average of $69,000,000 a day, and of that amount we have been running in the red $46,000,000.

WHEN Washington has its next test blackout, every one of the government's 391 buildings here will go dark, too. There will be no more of that business of having some public buildings even floodlighted from outside while the private population gropes through darkened homes.

The size of the blackout job may be guessed from the estimate of public buildings official that it will cost $1,000,000 to make it total. This amount won't be spent, however, in the coming test. Only where night shifts are working, will blackout frames be installed over windows and doors. In others, the lights will simply be turned out.

Health Questions Answered Here.

—By DR. CLENDENING

G. K.:—"I take lemon juice and warm water every morning and also through the day 1 tablespoonfull of molasses in milk once a day. Is it bad to take either of these, as I have high blood pressure?"

Answer: They have no effect on blood pressure whatever.

B. E. R.:—"What causes the gall bladder to act up? Is there any special dict, or omission of any food that will make it behave?"

Answer: The gall bladder gets the drainage from all the poisons of the liver and the liver gets all the poisons from the bowels, so it is no wonder that occasionally the gall bladder "acts up." Fat in the diet causes the gall bladder to contract, so it is probably better to eat a very light, lean diet consisting of lean meats, vegetables cooked without butter of gravy, raw fruits and clear soups. Especially eat lightly for a while.

C. W.:—"Are raisins good for the system and do they contain iron?"

Answer: Raisins have good nutritive value and contain quite a large amount of iron compared to other foods.

J. T. D.:—"Would an aniline hair dye cause eye trouble—cloudy vision?"

Answer: Many cases of this kind have been reported. It is very important that you investigate an aniline hair dye before using it.

A Soldier's Father Expresses His Views

Editor's Note: The following letter was printed in the Memphis Commercial Appeal as an editorial. It was written by a member of the Arkansas bar who served with United States forces in the first World war and the Commercial Appeal commends it as "a document every thinking citizen should read and ponder."

"To the Commercial Appeal:

"My only son was born while I was in France during the first World war. Today he is a member of the United States marine corps. He sailed from California the 1st of January, and we have heard nothing from him since. We know he is somewhere in the Pacific. We are anxious about him. Thousands of other parents are like us.

"The president says we do not have enough ships to send supplies to our troops, and that we must build ships in a hurry. Even as he spoke several hundred shipbuilders refused to work on Washington's birthday because they were not paid double time.

"How can fathers and mothers of boys who are in the danger zone and who are being called upon to sacrifice their lives feel any 'surge' of unity when the president and the congress permit a bunch of shipbuilders and munitions workers to quit when they get good and ready?

"Do our boys at the front get 'overtime' and 'double time' in the fox holes of the Philippines? Do our sons who are giving their lives to protect the jobs of these and others like them quit on holidays? Like hell they do!

"One of my friends, who is a good mechanic, with a family to support, went to get a job in a munitions plant. Every day we hear on the radio and read in the newspapers that such men are needed to turn out munitions for our soldiers, sailors and the marines. But this man was refused a job until he could get a union card. He could not get a union card because he did not have enough money to buy one.

"Is it the idea of our government that it is more important to preserve labor unions than it is to preserve the American Union? Why can't a free-born American citizen get a job in a plant where the government needs workers without having to pay tribute to a highpowered labor leader?

"If our sons are to be drafted to give their lives for their country, why should not labor and capital be drafted to supply them with munitions of war? Why should congress, which has the power to make laws, be so tender of the regard for laborers and management who work and prosper in safety while having an utter disregard for the lives of the boys at the front?

"We don't like it, and we don't mind saying so right out loud. Maybe it is time we were electing some senators and congressmen who will crack down and compel capital and labor to get into this war. And, come to think of it, this is election year, and we might as well get busy while we have the time and opportunity.

"JOHN C. SHEFFIELD."

COUNCIL TO ASK RENEWAL OF GAS RATES

Shelby City Fathers Agree To Maintain Present Schedule.

SHELBY—City council agreed to ask for renewal of present gas rates from the Ohio Fuel Gas company at its semi-monthly meeting Monday night at City hall.

Council did not approve an ordinance setting up the present rates. It authorized Mayor W. R. Morris to confer with gas company officials to determine whether the rates would be accepted by the company. The ordinance will be submitted at a later meeting.

The present rates remain in effect until a new ordinance is approved by council.

The schedule now in effect here includes the following rates: 20 cents per 100 cubic feet for first 500 cubic feet, 5 and one-half cents per 100 cubic feet for next 9,500 cubic feet and 5 cents per 100 cubic feet for all in excess of 10,000 cubic feet.

The average 5,000-foot consumer here pays a rate of 69 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas.

Council approved renewal of the old rates on recommendation of the gas committee which met recently to study the rates from other cities. This committee included Mayor W. R. Morris, Third Ward Councilman Noel Smith and Councilman-at-large Wilbur Workman.

Burch Smith presented a petition from property owner along Madison avenue asking that a curb and gutter be constructed along that street at a cost not to exceed 75 cents per front foot to the property owners. The petition was turned down because the amount of the improvement to the property owners would be more than 75 cents per front foot.

Howard Hart was present and asked that the alley between Sharon and West street, north of Auburn street, be improved. Mayor Morris said that he would take the matter up with Street Commissioner Guy McClane.

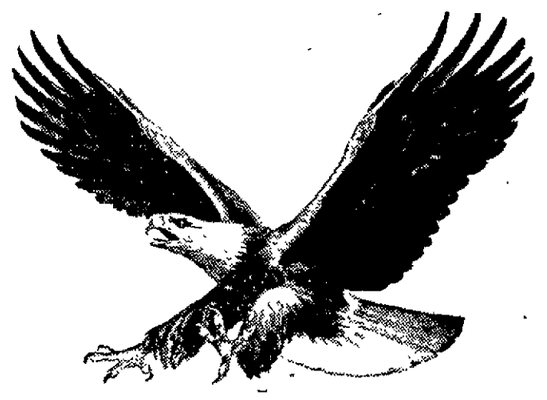
We're Sorry Folks ....

WE CAN'T GET TIRES EITHER...



Some time ago the Tire Rationing Board advised us that we would not be permitted to buy tires for delivery of milk to homes. Just recently the Board told us that we are no longer eligible to get retread or recapping rubber for these same trucks.

Faced with this problem, it has been necessary for us to devise some plan whereby we may continue to serve you as long as possible.

To do this, we are starting every other day delivery to your homes on Wednesday and Thursday, March 18th and 19th. Your Route man will leave you a double supply of dairy products on the day he delivers in your neighborhood. The products you will receive will be fresh when delivered, for on days when you will not be getting milk, your friends in the other half of the city will be getting their double orders.

We want you to know that all of our Route men will stay with us under this plan. Two men will be on each truck in order to give you the best possible service.

News-Journal Page For Women

Could Be Happy With Either

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 18 years old and think I'm in love with two boys——if that's possible. I met them last July, one of them being my chum's brother and the other his best friend. I fell in love with both of them. They are 24 and 22, very fine fellows and have both showed me good times.

When Im with one, he says he thinks I'm in love with the other, and vice versa. I feel this is the real thing but am not sure which one I love most. Please tell me whether it's possible to be in love with two men at the same time.

D. A. G.

As this column has frequently pointed out, and the wisdom is not mine, when a man or woman declares he is in love with two people at one and the same time, the blissful state is being in love with love rather than any individual.

At 18 you've got plenty of time to unravel your affections and decide with which of these young men you're actually in love.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A certain boy I like immesely has said that he's afraid he is getting to like me too much. I know I haven't given him grounds to believe I was becoming serious. I know he's bashful and hasn't had much to do with girls. I'd like to invite him to a dinner party on my birthday; do you think it would be all right?

I'd like to know why boys always use that line "I'm beginning to like you too much."

W. G.

To tell a girl that he's got to drop out because he's beginning to like her too much is a flattering way of getting out of a situation that begins to seem worrisome. There may be many reasons why this young man feels that he is in honor bound not to pay you more attention. He may have obligations at home or his income may not be sufficient to consider marriage. He may be already drafted for army service.

There may be a dozen reasons why he feels it's better not to see you continually. But there's no reason why you should not ask him to your birthday party.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My girl friend and I went together for about four and a half years. While I was away at college, she began running around with different boys. I became angry and we had arguments about it when I came to visit her on week-ends.

We finally broke up and I walked around in a daze for several weeks. I pleaded with her to forgive me, but she won't believe me when I say I won't act that way again.

She has moved away now, and I haven't seen her for several months. But, Miss Fairfax, I love her and want her back. I've also heard that she still cares for me but is too proud to make up. What can I do to straighten out this difficulty?

X Y Z

Oh, you youngsters who let foolish pride stand in the way of reconciliation. Don't be silly. If she doesn't live clear across the continent, surprise her again at her new home on one of these weekends and tell her—you'll know what to say—that you just want to make up and be happy again. Quarrels lead to so much unnecessary unhappiness.

Influence Of Color on Appearance

By MME. QUI VIVE

Smartly dressed women, those who get an admiring glance from every passerby because they are so well put together, are blessed with good taste and a true sense of beauty. They are in a separate class from the dear dowdy ones who stagger around picking up frocks haphazardly, who take the first lip stick offered by the saleswoman without considering the color, who pick out a hat that they consider "neat." Whether it's last year's mode or of the present vintage doesn't matter.

The wise ones among us have cultivated an appreciation of color, so important to good appearance that every selection of wearing apparel must be given consideration. They realize that color not only has an effect upon the complexion and the outlines of the figure but that it influences one's moods and feelings. We have to live with our clothes, as we have to live with relatives, and we should try to get along with them. Every woman, making a mistake now and then, has lugged home a frock or hat that has immediately declared war upon her. Neither she nor it could have anything to do with the other.

Don't say that's an exaggeration. The same thing has happened to you. Few of us escape the unhappy experience.

Every woman should have a frock of luscious French blue, that soft, smoky tone that flatters blondes and brunettes. This color is becoming to every one, no matter what the age may be. It helps create a calm, serene state of mind. It has repose. When your special world seems teetering, or some member of the family irritates—even the nicest ones do now and then—get into the blue frock. You are composed. Let the vocal shootin' start: you won't blink a winker.

Red is stimulating and invigorating. A red hat is to a woman what strong liquor is to an alcoholic. It intoxicates the spirits. Get out the rosy bonnet, go get yourself a new hairdo, see an amusing movie, and what the dickens if the dishes aren't washed?

Women who invariably select dull, drab colors are likely to be dull creatures living uninspired lives. They go in for cold grays and washed out browns; maybe they fancy that gay colors are not respectable; I don't know about that. I do know that clothes of that character would crush those of us who revel in lovely, luscious tones with which Nature is so lavish. Look at the birds and flowers and sunlit skies.

Black is depressing, casts a spell of gloom. It should be worn only by lovely young women with colorful complexions to take away the curse. It is cruel to the aged, accenting the marks of time.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A REGULAR SHILLALEH

ON St. Patrick's Day it is appropriate to chronicle the use, by a real fighting Irishman, of probably the tightingest kind of weapon that can be used in a contract bridge auction. It is known as the "forcing pass." Easy to identify, it is marked by your passing an opponent's call at a time when your partner knows you could make a perfectly safe bid. He must interpret your action then as telling him he must either double that bid, or else make for you the bid which he knows you could have made.

	♠ A Q 5 4 ♥ Q 10 7 2 ♦ 9 6 ♣ J 10 5
♠ 6 3 ♥ K J ♦ Q 10 ♣ K Q 8 7 6 4 3	W. N. E. S.	♠ 9 7 ♥ A 9 6 4 3 ♦ K 8 7 3 2 ♣ 2
	♠ K J 10 8 2 ♥ 8 5 ♦ A J 5 4 ♣ A 9

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
2 ♣	2 ♠	3 ♥	Pass
Pass	Dbl	4 ♦	Dbl
4 ♥	Dbl

Colonel J. J. O'Hare, who was known as "Red" when he played almost the entire side of the West Point line, who later won the bridge championship of Cuba when he was the military attaché of the American embassy in Havana, and who now is a member of the general staff, was South on this deal in a rubber game, and made that devastating pass of East's 3-Hearts.

Since North had made a free bid over West's 2-Clubs, he knew his partner was able to bid spades again, but nevertheless passed, to give North a crack at the bid, which was much too high for overcallers against a pair that possessed enough strength for an opening call by one and a free bid by the other. Notice East's panicky call of diamonds when he found he was doubled, also how West felt he had to shift to his partner's first suit to minimize the punishment.

As it developed, the contract was set four tricks, with two in spades, two in hearts, two in diamonds and one in clubs. That produced 800 points, whereas a game for South would have brought only a score worth about 420, which would have been the result if the Colonel had bid 3-Spades instead of using the forcing pass. It turns out that 4-Clubs by West might have been set only one trick, but just when would he bid that? And would East leave it in?

Tomorrow's Problem.

If South's overcall of 1-Club by 1-Diamond is the only hostile bidding, how should East and West carry on the rest of the auction on this deal?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Gus took the map from my hand, then looked at me a bit uneasily.

"You wouldn't want to tell me where you're going on 341?" he asked. "It might help the driver in figuring out things."

"Why of course, Gus," I answered quickly. "I'm going as far as a tiny village called Warren. From there on we'll have to inquire our way."

"Okay," he said again, and with the map in his hand went up to the driver, thrusting it toward him, evidently telling him what I had said.

The driver nodded, but did not take his eyes from the road. The next second he slowed the pace of the car, drove it to the side of the road, deftly exchanged seats with the second man and gave him a quick, low direction.

Gus was still carrying the map, and the driver did not even look toward it as he turned one of the adjustable seats and lowered himself into it, facing me. I motioned Gus to the seat beside me, and the driver began questioning me, still acting as if the map were not in existence.

I recalled his boast that he knew the Connecticut roads—through thoroughfares and back lanes alike—and knew that he would disdain looking at anything so commonplace as a map.

"Gus says you want to go through Warren, but don't want to go through Kent. That right?"

"Exactly," I told him. I felt a bit guilty that I didn't speak of the map and give him another chance for naive boasting.

"Then there's two ways you can get there," he said. "One's about five or more miles longer than the other, but you won't lose any time, for it's all bully road. Any idea where we are now?" he asked abruptly.

"Not the slightest." I told him truthfully. "I heard you tell Gus at the beginning of that narrow road that you were an hour and a half from Kent. I should judge that you were about 10 minutes from there now."

"You're a good guesser," he said with a comradely grin. "Make it 45. I had to stop to change seats, and I told him to drive slow till I knew where we were going.

"Now here's the dope," he went on. "We've just turned off 22, one of the big north and south roads in New York, and we're on a short unnamed road connecting up with Route 37 in Connecticut. Now when we get on 37, we can do one of two things.

"If you don't mind," I interrupted him, "I'd like to look at the map while you talk."

"Sure thing," he responded readily, and Gus opened out the map and put it into my outstretched hand.

"You won't find this road on here," the driver said, pointing a stubby forefinger at Route 22. "Here's where we turned off."—he jabbed his finger at a point on the mapped route—"and here's where we are coming out on 37," as he jabbed his finger again. "Now if you'll follow 37 along you'll come to where it goes down the mountain to New Milford. Right there do you see where 39 goes the other way toward Kent?"

"Yes, I see," I told him.

"Well!" he drew a long breath, and evidently braced himself for explanations. "We can follow 37 down to New Milford—we'll be on 7 a minute or two, but that will be all. There's a narrow lane across the river, then at New Milford we get Route 25 up to Route 45 at New Preston. We can get up to Warren on that route—341 joins it for a mile or so—but it's not on the Kent side.

Avoiding the Other Car.

"You see, 341 goes from Kent through Warren and joins 45 there. But you'll be coming up the New Preston side of Warren, while that other car will probably be coming through Kent. You won't be in the same territory with them, before you get to Warren, for more than an eighth of a mile.

"There's another way you can skip 7," he said, "but you'd be on 341 on the same side as the other car would be coming."

His tone was dubious, and I realized that the first route he outlined was the one he approved. I made my decision instantly, for I never set my own judgment against that of a person who knows more about a subject than I do, and this driver, in Dicky's parlance, evidently "knew his onions—boiled and fried."

"We'll take the first road you outlined," I said, "through New Milford."

Child Who Lies Learns It at Home

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

All parents who try to be upright in moral character wish their children to be truthful. Children seem to be born truthful. They learn to lie, and nearly always their first teachers are their parents.

Good education for truthfulness in the child requires, among other things, a pair of truthful parents who are companionable, and a family atmosphere in which every one loves everyone else; a home in which the child feels emotionally secure and isn't tempted to deceive.

Young Child Truthful.

The child beginning to talk seems to try hard to report things as he thinks they happened. His departure from the facts can be charged to his imagination, or to his poor observation, poor memory, poor interpretation.

But the child learns very early after he begins to move about that always to be truthful is not practical. Here is how it happens. His conscientious parents are eager to train him to do right. Now and then something happens to lead them to suspect the child has done something in their absence which they did not want him to do or had told him clearly not to do. Yet they do not have the facts.

The only way they suppose they can get these facts is by asking the child. In the first, or first several such experiences, the youngster very naively reports the facts as accurately as he is able. He tells the truth. Then, if what he reports verifies the suspicion of the parent the child, in 99 cases out of 100, is punished.

The parent supposes she is punishing him for the misdemeanor, which might have taken place several hours or several days before. The child might connect the punishment slightly with this misdemeanor or might not, but he surely associates the punishment sharply with the accurate report he has made.

After several such experiences, he concludes it is not practical to tell the truth. He lies.

CHAPTER XXIX

"Greetings!" Stephen said. "All alone?"

Judith tried to smile. It was difficult to pretend that nothing was wrong. "Yes, all alone."

"You look nice and cool." He came up on the porch and sat in the other white wicker chair opposite her. "Cigaret?"

"No, thanks."

He frowned as he glanced at the sky streaked with vivid twilight colors.

"You know, it's too bad we don't have daylight saving here."

She smiled. "You mean it would give you time to play a round of golf before dark."

He grinned. "Stop it . . . Are we doing anything tonight? Movie or something?"

"Let's just go for a ride."

A ride through the warm summer night, her hair blowing back from her cool face, her mouth tight while Stephen told her of an amusing incident at the office that day. She thought, "please don't let him say anything about Quebec until I tell him."

"Couldn't we stop somewhere, Stephen?" She had never suggested it before.

"Anything you say."

He turned the car from the highway to a dark side road and brought it to a stop on a bank overlooking a quiet river.

All the sounds of a summer night were in the air. Below small waves rippled to the white beach, and down the beach the lights from summer bungalows winked a welcome. On the river a brightly-illuminated excursion steamer sailed slowly.

For a few minutes they sat there seeing the lights and hearing the noises of the night. Then Stephen turned his head and looked at Judith and she turned hers and looked at him. In his look were anxiety and waiting, in hers guilt and shame.

"Stephen, I'm not going on Saturday. That is, I'm—I'm going to meet you in Quebec."

His eyes narrowed and he frowned. "You're not going? Why not?"

"I've got to be in New York for a few days. I—"

"You mean you're going back to New York—to look for a job?" Before she could explain he turned his head away quickly and looked down on the river. One hand clenched on the steering wheel. "I thought you'd do that sooner or later. That—that's just what I thought you'd do. I knew I didn't have a chance . . . I've been crazy about you from the very beginning. I never was about any other girl. I never could just play around. It seemed such a waste of time. Besides, I have what is probably a screwy idea that I wanted to keep myself for the girl I married . . . There was certain things a girl had to be. You were all of those things. You were—the best.

"Sound sort of dumb talking about it now. I'm not good at this romantic stuff. I feel a lot of things I can't say. I wanted to tell you all this before, but I suppose I was afraid of being turned down cold and that would finish our seeing each other . . . It hasn't been easy being with you a lot and not making love to you. I'm not—But, never mind. I won't go into that.

"I've been around with other girls, sure but they were only a blind. I didn't want you to know how crazy I was about you. I stayed in Clinton because of you. I've worked with you in my mind." He chuckled, but it was a bitter chuckle directed to himself. "I knew you could never love a failure and that if a man didn't make good, you'd think he didn't have brains and ability and you couldn't love or live with a man who didn't have both."

"Stephen, I didn't—" This hurt, this hurt terribly.

"You didn't encourage me. Is that what you mean? No, you didn't. So why should I be sore at you? I'm not. I should have known that sooner or later you'd go back to New York and—maybe to the man who gave you that bracelet." He chuckled again, the same bitter chuckle.

"I kept hoping that sometime I'd see you without it. But you still wear it. You're wearing it now.

"Do you remember the day Dick was buried? I looked at you and—and it was as if you were—my wife. You see, I've been taught to have the utmost reverence for that word 'wife'." He took a deep breath. "The joke is on me, I suppose, but I don't in the least want to start laughing."

It was as though he were offering his heart, an honest heart with no adornments, no lies, no secrets . . . Judith thought, "I am going back to New York—to stay. I can't tell him about Max now . . . not after what he has said to me. I can't bring Max into this. He doesn't belong."

Stephen said, "You don't have to meet us in Quebec, Judith. I'm not going. Harriet and Larry and Katherine and Ralph will have fun. I'll go up to Lake George. There's a gang going up."

Mary Anderson's "gang."

"Will you take me home now, Stephen?"

He nodded. "Glad to."

The ride back was almost unendurable. They said nothing and she felt hurt keenly, his drawing away from her. She felt that she had come to the end of a good book she did not wish to finish.

The Barth home was dark. They walked up the path as they had so often on happier occasions. On the porch she turned to him.

He spoke first. "I won't come in, Judith. It would be sort of silly to sit around and talk." He smiled. "I hope you'll be very happy."

He held out his hand and she took it and held it. She did not want to let go.

"Stephen, I've had luck and happiness, knowing you. People say such trite things when they are saying good-bye." Her throat ached. "Let's make it brief and—"

His mouth pulled at one corner. "And sweet?"

"I don't want you to go, but I know I've no right to keep you."

"Don't worry about me. I'll be okay. I shouldn't have said."

"You said it very well."

"I thought we were going to make it brief. Well . . . good-bye, Judith."

"Good-bye, Stephen."

She stood on the porch and watched him go, wondering whether she were crying because she was sorry for him or sorrier for herself. She continued to stand there long after the new car had driven away—when she entered the house it was to pack only the things she would need in New York.

The next day Judith worked in a kind of daze, and in the evening had dinner with her parents. The cruise was one subject they avoided and though they tried to keep the table conversation pleasant, she was conscious of their anxiety and disapproval.

"I've decided to go to New York tonight," she announced quietly.

"I'll take you to the station," her father said.

They waited in the living-room until she came downstairs and she noticed a quickening in their conversation as she came in the room, wearing a navy silk coat over a print frock and a navy hat with an upturned brim. She thought then, "I'll have to call Emily and Tim. I won't see them either."

They wouldn't ask her any questions and her mother tried pitifully to be cheerful as they rode to the station.

"I called on our new neighbor today, Nicholas. Really, she is the strangest woman. From out west somewhere and says exactly what she thinks. Brutally frank about everything, but I had a feeling she'd be the first to send you something if you were sick or in need. She said my new hat was atrocious for a woman of my age. I had to agree with her. Judith, don't you think that modern furniture is bad in a colonial house?"

"I've often thought it was, but I know it's done."

"It seems to to be more fitting in an apartment than in a house. I don't suppose I'll ever get used to it. I always feel I'm on a movie set. Nicholas, did you speak to Harry today about coming to dinner next week? I'd have called him, but I know you were at lunch with him today."

"We made it for Wednesday."

"That's fine. Thursday is my Red Cross day and Bessie is going to keep an eye on the children. Things have changed since the last war when I worked with the Red Cross. Really, one should know first aid and particularly people with young children. Harriet is getting a great deal out of it."

The Clinton station on a summer night. On Christmas night, while she was thinking of Max, Stephen's arms in his great brown coat had taken her eagerly and he had kissed her awkwardly.

"You haven't much time, Judith," her father said.

They waited beside the tracks while she bought her ticket.

When she joined them her mother said, smiling, "Makes me want to go away, Nicholas. You know, one of the things that impressed me in the little traveling I've done is that from about 6 to 7 at night the kitchens are lighted. America's eating time." She turned to Judith and put her arms around her and kissed her. "You'll let us know when you're coming home, dear?"

"Of course. My plans are." She had no plans. She knew only that she was seeing Max tomorrow.

"Yes, yes, I know."

Judith turned to her father. She had to stand on the toes of the small blue pumps to put her arms around his shoulders. "Good-bye, Dad."

"Good-bye, honey. We'll be waiting to hear from you."

She thought, why don't they say it? Why are they being so kind to me?"

"You'll hear from me in a few days."

"Need any money?"

"No."

He patted her shoulder affectionately. "You never do. You're an independent brat. Always have been. Run along."

Judith did not glance back. She couldn't. She knew too well how they looked.

You Can Help Keep Good Gas Service Under War Conditions

Automobile and tire rationing, and a shrinkage in available, trained manpower are making themselves felt in the gas business — and will increase as time goes on. Certain changes of policy which we regret, but are beyond our control, have been made necessary. Yet, with the cooperation of our customers, we believe that high standards of service can be rendered to every user. The Gas Company is pledging itself to do its part and by reading this message you can learn how your help is necessary.

Please Give Reasonable Notice On Requests For Service

Service calls make heavy demands on automobiles, tires and manpower. By handling your service requests along with the regular routing of our trucks, much of this can be saved. Usually customers know several days ahead when they will require service but it has become a rather common habit to notify The Gas Company at the last minute, necessitating a special call. Such requests include turning gas on and off as in moving, appliance adjustments, pressure investigations and similar work. In the future the following policy is necessary —

Except in cases of suspected hazard or extreme emergency, a minimum of 24 hours' notice will be required for service calls in communities where service crews are maintained, and in towns serviced from other communities such calls must conform to a less frequent schedule of routing trucks.

The more notice you can give, the more nearly we can try to conform to your schedule. Please make every effort to be at home when such appointments are made so that your request can be handled in one call. Under this plan some few customers may experience temporary inconvenience, but we do not believe any real hardships will result.

Collectors Are Discontinued

To save tires, automobiles and manpower for essential maintenance of gas service, the use of outside bill collectors is being discontinued, and this policy is now effective—

The use of collectors is being discontinued in such communities which heretofore were large enough to justify their use, and in smaller towns other employees will no longer be assigned part time to this work. Customers who have past-due bills and who have not established a record of prompt payment will receive a notice of discontinuing service which will be enforced on the next scheduled round of the service truck after the effective date of the notice. A charge of One Dollar ($1.00) will be made for turning on gas after service has been discontinued for non-payment of the bill.

Again The Gas Company has no desire to bring undue hardships to any gas user. Those having emergency cases worthy of consideration for further extension of credit are asked to contact our offices. Service men are not authorized to deal with such cases when calling to make a turn-off.

Should the program to attain Victory necessitate other changes in our operating policies, you will be advised at the earliest possible time.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—We are going on a sugar ration and the price of sugar is higher than a cat's back—higher than at any recent time since the great inflation of 1920.

Gen. Johnson.

Of course this argues a great shortage of available supply, but such is not the case.

The world's greatest supply of sugar comes from Cuba, where almost 6,000,000 tons were raised in the hey-day of 1929. Our other sources were Puerto Rico, Hawaii and until recently the Philippines.

We raised in the United States at the maximum 2,300,000 tons or about 80 per cent of all raised in 1939. It was also about 90 per cent of the production of Cuba, Puerto Rico and Hawaii.

But we did not permit the full production of these island associates of ours to come in freely. We have even sometimes treated Hawaii as though she were not part of the United States in this regard.

By various devices of quotas and tariffs on this off-shore sugar throughout these years we have sought to inflate the price to American farmers in the beet sugar states and Louisiana (cane sugar) in order artificially to create a higher market.

It was something like our buying almost useless silver at artificially inflated prices for the purpose of politically appeasing the sparsely settled silver-producing states or putting an excise tax on the importation of the strategic material, copper.

We even went to the point of putting our domestic production of beet and cane sugar on a quota and thus, by creating an artificial domestic shortage, increase the price to the American consumer. With all that, the consumer is now to go on a sugar ration, notwithstanding that there is now no real shortage even of domestic sugar.

Something of this same necromancy is true of petroleum. We not only have plenty of petroleum actually flowing for our own uses, but we have a vast but unknown quantity of it pinched-in" the ground to avoid over-production and waste.

The reason for this is more understandable. It is a growing shortage, not of oil, but of tanker transportation to our Allies,' due to submarine sinkings and a shortage of steel for pipe lines from the Gulf.

Yet even here we are not doing all that ingenuity can invent. As has been repeatedly urged in this column, a considerable quantity could be transported on wooden barges on inland waterways.

One of our greatest problems seems still to be strategic materials, and we are doing too little about it. The sinking of a single cargo ship loaded with bauxite some time ago was a far greater catastrophe than the loss of several oil tankers. It makes one wonder why she at least wasn't better protected.

Jesse Jones will doubtless spend some uncomfortable moments explaining why we didn't get into our stocks at least a year's supply of rubber and tin before the ocean routes were closed.

As it is there is a good deal of doubt whether the "scorched earth" policy was applied effectively by the United Nations in the Dutch East Indies to the lost oil, rubber and tin sources. We used to take 60 per cent of the output of the two latter.

You can't destroy a tin deposit and no hastily retreating army could destroy 100,000 rubber trees, not to mention many times that number. Japan now doubtless has all the tin, rubber and oil she needs and we don't.

So Mr. Jones will also have to explain why, when authorized, he established, for Bolivian tin ore, only one little tea-pot smelter at his home town of Houston for a Dutchman, and let the rest of the ore go to England to be smelted.

ONE DROWNED, FOUR MISSING IN RIVER CRASH

Workmen Seek Bodies After Barge Hits Pier, Sinks Towboat.

(By United Press)

BELLAIRE—Rivermen dragged the swollen Ohio river today, searching for the bodies of the captain and three crew members listed as missing in the sinking of the towboat Katie Lyons which went down after one of its barges struck a bridge pier in a dense fog.

Second Engineer Charles Danner, 66, of Pittsburgh, was drowned and 14 crew members, including two women, were rescued last night following the wreck at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad trestle connecting Bellaire and Benwood, W. Va. Danner's body was recovered eight miles below the bridge

The steamer was en route from Pittsburgh to Point Pleasant, O., with a tow of eight barges, three of them carrying steel products.

The wreck occurred at about 4:15 p. m. when the boat, running in swift current, "snagged" the barge on the vessel's port side on the bridge pier, apparently staving a hole in its hull. The boat and port barge sank "immediately," rivermen said, but seven barges went down stream out of control. At least three of them were recaptured and others were said to have been swamped by the current.

Rescuers put out from the Ohio and West Virginia shores in skiffs picking up nine survivors. Five others were rescued at Dam No. 13, two and one-half miles downstream

Thirteen survivors, 11 of whom are from Pittsburgh, were brought to Bellaire hospital, suffering from shock and exposure. First Mate Robert MacIntyre, Pittsburgh, was taken to Wheeling hospital for treatment of shock. None was in serious condition

The accident occurred on the second anniversary of this community's greatest disaster—an explosion at the Willow Grove mine which took 73 lives.

It was the second major Ohio river accident in less than a month. On Feb. 22, 16 persons drowned when the towboat G. W. McBride hit a pier near Cincinnati and sank.

Up and Down THE STREET

Sure and today was St. Patrick's day and it was the duty of every mother's son to wear a bit of the green, but Geraldine Hartman, secretary to J. B. Moke, superintendent of Mansfield school buildings, was doing a bit of checking up just to be sure. Geraldine inspected every person coming into the office and came out with a perfect score, all persons wearing some shade of green. In one case, though Geraldine was hard pressed and had to fall back on the fact that although one visitor wore no green he had green eyes.

Another evening of fun and games designed to show the boys and girls of Friendly House how to enjoy a session of recreation together is in store for the youth of that settlement house Friday night. Mrs. Irma Augustine is arranging the affair and has planned numerous entertaining and competitive features for the party that will be attended by approximately 100 boys and girls beginning at 12 years of age.

Did you ever have the task of separating and counting hundreds of pennies and nickels? Banking officials handling the receipts from Mansfield's 114 parking meters have that job twice a week and soon found that it was too tiresome to do by hand. So they purchased a "meat-grinder" into which mixed coins can be tossed to come out in neat stacks of each denomination. The operator turns a crank which tosses the coins about until they fall through proper slots and are automatically counted.

MOVE QUICKLY AFTER PUBLIC CRY FOR SPEED

House Support For Drastic Industry and Labor Laws Increases Rapidly.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A public cry for faster war production got a quick reaction today from congress and the administration.

Drastic legislation affecting both labor and industry gained house support which assumed major proportions.

President Roosevelt was understood to have advised his legislative leaders that the whole labor production problem — involving questions ranging from a "wage parity" to temporary suspension of the 40-hour week—was being reconsidered by the administration.

As a result, there were reports that Democratic congressional leaders would attempt to stave off immediate action in congress on any other new program. Precipitate action, it was believed, might lead to a serious, general labor difficulty.

Friends of the administration in the house, however, reported that the sentiment mounting rapidly for any legislation which would speed war production, the first such bill to reach the debate stage probably would be approved speedily and overwhelmingly.

In this category they placed legislation relating to both military and naval war contracts introduced yesterday by Rep. Smith (D.-Va.), which would:

1. Would wipe out the current basic 40-hour work week and provisions of laws and contracts requiring payment of time and one-half for overtime.

2. Outlaw the closed shop to insure what Smith termed "the inalienable right" of a person to work without "paying tribute" to anyone.

3. Impose a flat 6 per cent limitation on profits from defense contracts.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.), announced the house naval committee would begin hearing Thursday on the new proposal and the military committee was expected to follow suit quickly.

Some house members quickly seized upon the legislation as an outlet for the protests that have been arriving in waves from people "back home" who, they said, are wondering why United States production has not yet meant reinforcements for the Philippine garrison and supplies for an offensive against Japan.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

I IMAGINE out-of-towners are are beginning to revise their notion that New Yorkers are an inhospitable clan, if only because of the way they have taken in the uniformed sons of out-of-towners and fed them and danced with them and treated them to beer and milk and steaks and shows and the warm hand of friendship.

Kilgallen

I am thinking particularly of the unique Stage Door Canteen which the people of the theater are running with fine efficiency and warmth of heart on W. 44th street, between Sardi's and Broadway. I was over there the other night watching the young soldiers and sailors dancing with the pretty girls, drinking milk—and eating sandwiches, sitting around at little night club tables in relaxed conversation, and stopping once every hour to listen to free entertainment by some of the best talent in the theater.

I've never been in a place where the benevolence was dished out with so much gaiety and good-humor. I hope they are matching this kind of hospitality in cities like Atlanta and Cleveland and Milwaukee, but I doubt it.

I wonder how the government ban on the manufacture and sale of dinner jackets and tail coats will affect the sartorial happiness of our local lads who would rather not dine than dine in a sack suit.

Oh, I can guess what will happen. Little barside conversations between smoothies will begin to be overheard, the first gent whispering: "My bootlegger's just got a shipment of pre-war Bond Street tuxedo trousers." And the second confiding out of the side of his mouth: "That's nothing. I just bought a 1940 tail coat—right off the boat!"

Having read the latest proposals on the gas rationing situation, I am about reconciled to the fact that very soon if I want to get around town I will have to propel myself—and there seems to be only two methods open to me: the bike or the hike. I am a pretty fair walker when in the mood, but walking is a slow way of getting around, if you are used to getting around fast; so I think I will have to get a bicycle.

I approach the two-wheeler with some trepidation. I am a city child, never rode a bike except in Bermuda. I was pretty good at it there, but there my only competition was an occasional nag and buggy. I am not so confident about whizzing down Fifth avenue, sandwiched between a double-decker bus and a wild New York taxi.

But I'll probably do it If MacArthur's men can take chances, I guess I can, too.

Spring is here, I think. I can tell it not only by the bock beer signs and the gentleness of the winds in Rockefeller Plaza, but by the number of red straw hats you can count on the girls coming out of office buildings at noon time. . . . At simple, concise speech, I consider Joe Louis the champ. He never says too much and he never says the wrong thing. I'll bet he is a great telegram writer . . . I am the girl who doesn't like those French films that always win the Prix de Paris, the Prix de Goncourt, the Prix de Goncourt, the Prix de This and the Prix de Stuff. I have tried valiantly since my childhood—gone to them faithfully, bought my little loge ticket every time Sacha Guitry or Jean Gabin or Raimu or Yvonne Printemps set face on a local screen.

But the charm of it all never reached me. I don't much like the faces of French actors, and even in the face of all the critical acclaim and gold medals and other awards, I consider them pretty monotonous performers.

In these parts, I guess we get pretty spoiled by Gary Cooper and Cary Grant.

RANGERS HUNT 'BROWN MEN'

Scoutmaster Tells of Two-Day Gun Battle With Men In Cave Near Big Dam.

(By International News Service)

BOULDER CITY, Nev.—Forest rangers were to leave in boats today for an isolated colorado river canyon, three miles below Boulder Dam, in an attempt to solve the mystery of the "little brown men" who kept up a two-day gun battle with a soldier-scoutmaster and his group of Boy Scouts.

The rangers were heavily armed and carried equipment for mountain climbing to explore the cave from which the mysterious, swarthy-skinned men opened fire on the scouting party.

The scoutmaster, William F. Colley, a first class private stationed at a nearby army camp, told rangers who rescued him and four Boy Scouts yesterday that the strange cave dwellers opened fire late Saturday afternoon.

Colley returned the shots and said that he hit one of the men. The wounded man fell to the rocks far below and then disappeared in the river, the scoutmaster said.

Army and federal authorities were completely mystified by the strange attack. The possibility that saboteurs might be using the cave as a hideout was considered by authorities.

The canyon is only three miles from huge Boulder Dam. Eleven days ago fire, declared to be "undoubtedly the work of saboteurs," razed the administration building of the Basic Magnesium, incorporation plant under construction at nearby Las Vegas.

OPA READY WITH PRICE-CONTROL OFFENSE ON DINNER TABLE WAR

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Dinner tables are the site of an economic war with a rapidly expanding front, a survey of price control measures on foods disclosed today.

The front ranges from canned tomato juice through an extended menu to canned peaches, and the housewife who shys from fresh vegetables can have a complete price-control meal, with meat included.

Office of price administration authorities, leading the campaign against inflation at meal time, are believed ready to assume the offensive against additional salients in the near future, if it should be necessary.

Major action so far will become effective Monday, when wholesale price ceilings will be clamped upon about 9 per cent of all pork products. Such well known items as bacon, ham and pork chops will not be permitted to rise above highest levels prevailing between March 3 and 7.

This OPA action is aimed at the core of inflation, hitting the most popular meat of a meat-eating nation. Pork forms about 50 per cent of America's annual meat diet. The remaining 50 per cent is divided between beef, lamb and veal, with beef the most popular.

Previously the OPA had moved to check rising price tendencies on 11 canned fruits and 15 canned vegetables. Price ceilings, applying only to canners and wholesalers, were placed in effect March 2.

Bread has not experienced any frontal assault, but it might. The Commodity Credit corporation, which owns large stocks of wheat, can influence the price of that commodity by its selling program. And wheat is the important item in the price of bread.

There is no direct control over butter and eggs, but this situation is also "well in hand."

The school officials will consider a number of topics relative to the work of high schools and colleges during the war, Supt Miller said.

SALE SLOWS UP

Final Income Tax Week Cuts Purchase of Auto Tags.

Falling sharply during the past week the sale of 1942 automobile license plates is now more than 10 per cent behind figures for the same period in 1941.

Although tag sales a week ago were about 10 per cent in advance of last year, figures released today by Jack Berger, assistant secretary of the Richland county Auto club, revealed that 1942 plate sales are now 322 behind those of 1941.

According to Berger, the sudden drop in sales may be due to the strain imposed on family purses by federal income tax payments.

Up to this morning a total of 2844 license tags had been sold as compared with 3166 in 1941. Average figures for previous years show that about 7000 plates are sold during the month of March

The stamps are purchased by by the schools and sold to pupils. Supt. Somewhat overshadowed by the bucket barrage blasted by big Bob Winbigler is the scoring record compiled this season by tall Paul Dietzel, Mansfield high basketball center.

But if the Tygers had no Winbigler, tall Paul today would be the holder of the new all-time individual scoring record for one season by Mansfield high school cagers.

When he led the Tygers to the Sandusky district championship Saturday night by dunking 13 points against Ashland, Dietzel boosted his season's mark to 213 points.

* * *

That's two points better than Al Roth's 211 which stood as the Mansfield record for 19 years, until Winbigler passed it a month ago.

Now Dietzel's 213 not only isn't a new record, but it's 115 points behind Windy's new high mark of 328. Perhaps tall Paul is just a bit bewildered by it all.

Tyger Tutor Vern Hoffman and I checked over the Mansfield scorebook Sunday night, and discovered that Winbigler now has 134 buckets and 50 free points, and Dietzel 73 buckets and 67 free points.

It may be that Dietzel's free-shot total is a new record in the years since rules were changed to make each player shoot his fouls. I've no way of knowing.

* * *

Mansfield's Tygers have been compiling other records this season. Mark these down:

First time they ever defeated Ashland three times in one season.

First time they defeated New Philadelphia.

First time they defeated Hamilton.

First time in 20 years they defeated Springfield.

First time in recent years they defeated Massillon.

First time they defeated Sandusky twice in one season.

First time they defeated Bellevue twice in one season.

These records are passed on to me by Vern Hoffman. I haven't been able to check 'em myself.

* * *

If the Tygers can play two more games, and maintain their scoring average for the season, they'll chalk up exactly 1 000 points for the campaign

In winning 18 games and losing six, they've tallied 924 points. That's an average of 38 3 points per game That average over two more games would be 76 points, and 924 plus 76 is 1 000

You've done very nicely chillun Arithmetic class is dismissed for the day

It was Papa Paul Bannick tooting the whistle in the Mansfield-Fremont game Friday night. Mrs. Bannick had just presented him with a son that afternoon. At a time like that, I guess a guy's got a right to toot his whistle.

Two Toledoans Named On All-Ohio Quintet

Gerber Repeats at Center Post As AP Counts Bucket Ballots

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Toledo's mighty Rockets, winners of 22 of 25 games against the toughest teams in the country, placed two men on the all-Ohio college basketball squad selected today for the Associated Press by the state's coaches, officials and sports writers.

Bob Gerber, high-scoring center for the Toledo squad, was a runaway choice for the pivot job, while Bart Quinn, forward, grabbed another berth. Gerber, who scored 467 points in 23 games for a new state record, was awarded the honorary team captaincy.

* * *

Joining Quinn at forward is Charles Joachim, star of the state and Ohio conference champion Mount Union squad, while Leo Mogus, Youngstown's sensational junior, and Karl Kate, Wooster's high-scoring star, won the guard positions.

The first five, averaging better than six feet two inches in height piled up the huge total of 1718 points during the campaign, and average of 82 per contest. Gerber's average of 20.3 was tops

One unusual feature of the all-Ohio balloting, in which the Associated Press acted only as vote-counter, was that Denison's "Ike" McFadden, who won an Ohio conference first string berth, was relegated to the honorable mention list behind Price of Kent State and Fisher of Wittenberg. He had nosed both out in the conference balloting.

* * *

Gerber, in repeating as the all-state center, set a three-year scoring record for the state of 1251 points, bettering the totals of those recent "greats"—Nick Frascella of Wooster and "Chuck" Chuckovits of Toledo.

* * *

Akron, Kent State, Capital Muskingum and Dayton placed men on the second team, while third string berths went to stars from Xavier, Wittenberg, Mount Union, Toledo and Miami.

For the first time in years Ohio University and Ohio Wesleyan failed to place a man among the first 15.

First Team.

Charles Joachim, Mt Union, forward; Bart Quinn, Toledo, forward; Bob Gerber, Toledo, center Leo Mogus, Youngstown, guard, Karl Kate, Wooster, guard.

Second Team.

Lutsch, Akron, forward; Price, Kent State, forward; Geist, Capital, center Holtsclaw, Muskingum, guard, Kavanaugh, Dayton, guard.

Third Team.

Robbens, Xavier, forward; Fisher, Wittenberg, forward; Baughman, Mt Union, center, Nash, Toledo, guard; Palaia, Miami, guard

Honorable Mention.

Forwards: McFadden Denison, Miller, Ohio U.; Smith, Kenyon; Zuercher Findlay; Schlott, Mt Union

Centers: Lalich, Ohio U.; McDowell Muskingum; Eicher, Wooster; Knorek, De Sales; Bottenhorn, Cincinnati

GEORGE SELKIRK AND JOE DI MAGGIO

It is news when Joe DiMaggio, the slugging New York outfielder, works out in the Yankee spring training camp this early in the season. For Joe, annually a holdout for more money, is on deck after having recently signed for an estimated $42,000. George Selkirk is at left.

Youngstown Keglers Lead

Hold Three of Four First ABC Places.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Top spots in three out of the four main lists at the American Bowling Congress' 42nd annual tourney were held by Youngstown, O., keglers today.

Spilling the maples for a blistering 692 in three games of 248, 212, and 246, Joseph Kaminski, 30-year-old leather worker, captured all individual honors in yesterday's rollings and was responsible for putting Youngstown prominently on the ten pin map.

* * *

The 692 enabled Kaminski to pass Vincent Gries of Elizabeth, N. J., and take place in the singles, and it brought his total for the tourney to 1889 giving him the No 1 spot in the all-events list also.

The Struthers' Bowling Center of Youngstown still held first place in the five man list, with a 2878 total.

Russell Shuster of Youngstown totaled a 673 to take fifth place in the singles and Dick Dobbs, of Lima, O., had a tight clutch on third in the all-events list with 1877.

Among teams from outside of the state, the pace was set by W Faust and G. Zwiesler of Indianapolis who topped the doubles list with a 1289 total. 28 pins ahead of E. Eshrns and R Rieth of Chicago, who had 1261.

The F. and N. Taverns of Dayton, Ky., pulled up to second place in the five man team list with games of 994-969-898, for a total of 2861.

Only other newcomers to the daily standings list were John Wurth and Henry Blume of St. Louis, who spilled the maples for a 1223 total to grab fifth place in the doubles.

GOLFER JOHN CARR ENTERS AIR CORPS

Johnny Carr, long-driving Mansfield golfer, left this morning for Columbus and induction in the army air corps ground crew division.

A slight optical defect in one eye kept Carr from the flying branch of the air corps, but he hopes to enter the flying service through another examination in three months.

Long Island Defends Title

Tall Texans Threaten Clair Bee's Quintet.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Long Island university begins defense of its national invitation basketball championship against West Virginia tonight in the opening round of the fifth annual "world series" of the hardwood courts but have relinquished the favorite's role to West Texas State's Border conference champions.

The Texans, unchallenged "tallest team" in the country, clash with Creighton university, co-champions of the Missouri Valley conference, in the other opening round contest and on the strength of their earlier debut in Madison Square Garden this year, are almost unanimously picked to emerge at 1942 champions.

City college, Metropolitan champions by virtue of a one-point decision over New York university last week, plays Western Kentucky State college, Kentucky conference leader for 10 consecutive years and Rhode Island State, New England conference titleholders, meets Toledo university, the mid-west's top quintet, in the other first round games Thursday night.

The survivors meet in the semi-finals on Monday with the final schedule for next Wednesday.

LIU, title winners in '41 and '39, has won 25 of 27 games and is playing in the tournament for the fifth time. West Virginia has been victorious in 18 of its 22 games. It subsequently defeated three of the four teams to which it lost, and three of its four losses were during a stretch of eight days in which five games were played.

The Mountaineers have scored 1,174 points for a 53-point average, rivaling LIU's total of 1,498 points for a 54-point average. Their star is Captain Rudy Baric, a six-foot, three-inch 200-pounder who has tallied nearly 300 points.

Honor Athletes At New London

Football and Cage Stars Get Letters.

New London high school football and basketball players and their fathers were honored at the annual sports banquet in the school's gym-auditorium last night, attended by nearly 100 persons.

Seventeen football players were awarded letters by Coach Elmer Crabbs. They were: Robert Lehnert, Russell Twining, Lowell Lehman, Robert Harner Arden Marrett, Neal Thomas, Frank Dodam, Gerald Barnes, Shire Robinson, Tim Saunders, Bill Gilbert, Jim Walters, Norman Cooke, Douglas Clemons Donald Haas, Dale Seibert, and Bill Buzard. A manager's letter was awarded to Byron Griffin

Basketball letters went to Tim Walters, Byron Griffin, Oren Barker, Robert Lehnert, Harold Pfeifer, and Charles Thomas, while Ray Murr was awarded a manager's letter.

Numerals were given to boys on both squads who failed to get in enough quarters to win their letters.

Coach Paul Snyder of Mansfield high school's undefeated football team, was the principal speaker, and reminisced of the days when he was winning football championships at New London

"I thought then that I knew everything there was to know about football" Snyder confessed "Since then I've learned that I was merely fortunate in having an unusually good bunch of boys while I coached here. That doesn't happen often in a small school, that a great bunch of athletes will come along at the same time"

Boxing Tourney Planned By JAC

J B. Moke, superintendent of buildings, reported to the board of education last night that the Junior Association of Commerce has been tentatively granted the use of the senior high school gym April 9 and 10 for the annual JAC amateur boxing tournament.

* * *

This is the first indication that the JAC intends to go ahead with its tourney, usually held as a qualifier for the Cleveland Golden Gloves, and dropped this spring when the Mansfield association was unable to get together with the Cleveland Plain Dealer on rules governing the tournament.

Moke said it is understood that the net profits of the JAC are to be turned over to a senior high school activity to be selected by Supt. W. L Miller.

YOUNGSTERS HURL

TAMPA, Fla. —(AP)— Manager Bill McKechnie will send a pair of 19-year-old rookies to the mound today as the Cincinnati Reds take on the New York Giants. George Burpo, Tucson southpaw, and Ben Wade, Louisville righthander, will do the flinging.

BROWNS LOSE TWO PLAYERS TO ARMY

DELAND, Fla.—(U.P.)—Two St. Louis Brown regulars, Johnny Lucadello, second baseman and Jack Kramer, pitcher, have first call with Uncle Sam this season, they advised Manager Luke Sewell today. Lucadello wired that he had gone to Chicago to join the marines and Kramer announced from New Orleans that he was now 1-A in his local draft board and that he probably would be called shortly.

Webers Tie For Second Place

Commercial Leading Safety Cabs Defeated.

Weber Beers blanked Foresters to climb into a tie with Buckeye Beers for second place in the Commercial "C" bowling league at Colony alleys last night, and both runner-up clubs gained on the leading Safety Cabs who lost a 1-2 decision to Goebel Beers.

Burger took scoring honors with a 598 but his 241 wasn't quite good enough for high game. Heichel rolled 245 after heading for a 300. He had eight straight strikes, and then saw the 2-6 stand in the ninth.

Edwards Hits Circuit Blow

Ex-Brave Also Swats Single as Tribe Wins.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(U.P.)—The Cleveland Indians felt like a "new" team today after enjoying the best pitching of their spring season along with some heavy hitting by rookie Outfielder Hank Edwards from Norwalk, O., to snap a four-game losing streak.

Al Milnar and Jim Bagby, the first Indian hurlers to go more than three innings, scattered eight hits over nine innings yesterday as the Tribe thumped the Boston Braves, 9 to 1, at Sanford.

Cleveland meets the up-and-coming St. Louis Cardinals here today.

Edwards paced the 10-blow Indian offensive by slamming out a homer and a single. The round trip clout cleared a fence 370 feet from home plate.

* * *

Milnar blanked the Braves for the first four innings, yielding four hits. Bagby granted an equal number of safetics but the Braves got a run on a walk and a duoble in the eighth round.

Gene De Sautels collected three singles for the Tribe.

Massillon Quintet Defeated

Central Wins Toledo Title, Meets Celina.

By JAMES EMERSON

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—After drawing a blank last March, the usually-powerful circle of Akron high school cage teams today was assured of at least one and probably two representatives in the regional playoffs for the state Class A schoolboy basketball crown.

* * *

Three smooth-working Rubber City fives roared to easy victories in semi-final district contents at Kent last night and Massillon, a defending district titleholder, faded from the scene.

Akron North will be favored to trim Cuyahoga Falls in one half of the district finals tonight while the Akron South-Akron Kenmore clash appears to be a tossup.

A long set shot in the last 10 seconds by substitute Dick Moore gave Cuyahoga Falls a surprising 35 to 34 victory of Massillon last night after the Tigers had led nearly the entire game.

North romped over Elyria, 52 to 29; South brushed off Barberton, 47 to 33, and Kenmore walloped Stow, 36 to 14, to tune up for tonight.

The 14th Class A champion was chosen at Toledo when Central Catholic defeated Toledo Woodward, 42 to 34, as expected in the tourney title contest. Central Catholic meets Celina in the northwestern regional at Findlay this week-end.

* * *

Drawings for the Class A regionals at Youngstown and Dennison will be held tonight and tomorrow morning when the final two district winners are decided at Kent.

While the Class A "giants" wound up their district arguments, one of the strongest fields in several seasons took final workouts for the Class B state finals which opens at Springfield Thursday.

Dispelling the notion that the best teams usually don't survive the preliminary tournaments, the field of 16 Class B finalists has only four schools which lost more than four games during the lengthy schedules played by the smaller outfits.

Two of the contenders—Clearview from Lorain county and Bremen from Fairfield—are unbeaten in 23 clashes to date. Another entry, Fairport Harbor, won 17 out of 19 during the season and played only four Class B opponents, the rest being Class A. Six of Yorkville's seven losses were at the hands of Class A teams in the strong Ohio valley area which produced a state champion in Martins Ferry last year.

Webster Township from Wood county, the smallest school in the meet with an enrollment of 40 boys; Gnadenhutten, another little school with 55 boys, and Tipp City have lost only one game apiece.

* * *

Clearview and Webster won the best offensive records in the tourney, averaging 50 points per game during the season. Fairport Harbor, Somerset and Waynesburg, however, all hit 51 each in disposing of four district tourney opponents while Ottawa Hills from Lucas county had a 52-point pace in tourney games and 48 during the season.

Marion St. Marys suffered eight defeats during the season, more than any other team in the classic, but like Yorkville most of its losses came from Class A clubs.

Colds strike hardest in families which have low resistance (often due to insufficient vitamin A). Father John's Medicine supplies vitamin A and builds resistance in such cases. It also gives quick relief from coughs and throat irritation due to colds by its soothing effect on the throat.

3 LITTLE WORDS RUINED RACKET

Officer Nabs 'Dumb' Panhandler After He Calls for a Drink.

BALTIMORE —(AP)— Patrolman George Parke watched a tall, skinny guy in a shabby suit presenting a card to passersby. Those accosted would read the card and return it, sometimes with something from deep in their pockets.

Parke followed the man into a nearby tavern. The man said, "Gimme a shot." Parke said, "Let me see that card." The card said "I am deaf and dumb—Please help me."

Parke said "Come along." Magistrate Elmer Hammer said, "Three months in the House of Correction."

The man didn't say a word.

A HAIR IN THE HEAD WORTH TWO IN THE BRUSH

We will let the scientists fight it out as to what causes baldness, but folks tell us that gray hair can be hurried into existence, by poor health and the worry it causes. Mr. John C. Scheetz, 1620 Orchard St., Coshocton, Ohio, says: "Constipation had me so run down and worried that I looked twice my age. I'm so thankful for the constipation relief World's Tonic has given me that I could sing." Getting up nights, stabbing back pains, swollen joints, bad breath, all possible through constipation, and all worry makers. Try the laxative aid of the famous World's Tonic. It contains roots, herbs, barks, etc., from various old countries, where many of us and most of our ancestors, originally came from. Get World's Tonic at Miller, Wm. T. Hursh, Weinberger and all other reliable Drug Stores.

THEATERS

Romantic Comedy.

When a group of "ham" actors in Poland become involved with the Nazi invaders and must doff their "Hamlet" make-up to portray Nazi leaders from Hitler on down the fun starts in Jack Benny's picture, "To Be or Not To Be," showing at the Ohio. Carole Lombard plays her last role in this production. She appears as a famous actress and the wife of Benny, head of a theatrical company. In the situations that follow the invasion the company becomes so involved in plots and counterplots that they are never more than one jump ahead of the Gestapo. Robert Stack is in the cast.

Underground Drama.

"Paris Calling," Elizabeth Bergner's first Hollywood production, opening Wednesday at the Madison, presents the European star in a modern melodrama dealing with the underground movement that follows the invasion of France. As a wealthy hostess who entertains the French aristocrats Miss Bergner becomes a part of the underground movement with the fall of her country. Basil Rathbone appears as her fiance, Randolph Scott as an American aviator in the RAF, and Gale Sondergaard has a leading role. Marjorie Woodworth is featured in "Niagara Falls," the second picture.

Comedy With Music.

"The Chocolate Soldier," a romantic comedy of old Vienna based upon the private life of a married couple who are the musical comedy toasts of the town, is the attraction opening Wednesday at the Ritz. Rise Stevens and Nelson Eddy play the leading roles in the production that shows how a jealous husband puts his wife to the test by impersonating a dashing Russian singer. Melodies from the Strauss operetta fill the production in which Florence Bates and Nigel Bruce also appear. "Buy Me That Town," with Lloyd Nolan and Constance Moore is the second attraction.

Elsie Janis Starred.

Elsie Janis, the Ohio actress who was known in the first World war as the "Sweetheart of the A. E. F.," is starred in "Women In War," opening Wednesday at the Park. Miss Janis played much the same role in real life 20 years ago as she does in the film. Wendy Barrie has the part of the daughter of Miss Janis who is whirled into the maelstrom of war and emerges physically and emotionally intact thanks to the efforts of the older woman. Billy Gilbert, Patric Knowles, and Dennis Moore are cast. Gene Autry in "Springtime In the Rockies" is the second attraction.

2—Card of Thanks

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need

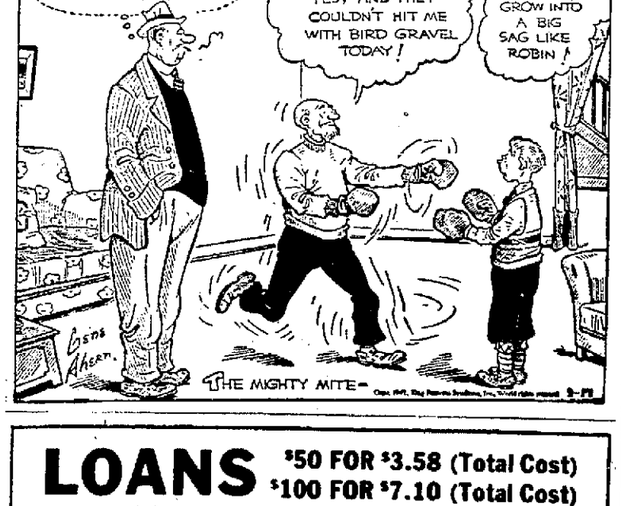
JUDGE PUZZLE— By Gene Ahern



IT'S BEEN FOUR DAYS SINCE I PUT MY CORN-STARCH PILLS IN HIS BOTTLE OF VITAMIN PILLS.... BUT IT ISN'T JELLING HIS ENERGY.... ...IN FACT, HE SEEMS TO HAVE MORE FIZZ!
DON'T BE AFRAID, DUNCAN,... I'LL JUST GUARD MYSELF!... STEP IN AND THROW A LEFT HOOK!... I USED TO BE AN AMATEUR FLYWEIGHT CHAMP IN '85!... YES, AND THEY COULDN'T HIT ME WITH BIRD GRAVEL TODAY!
COME ON... STEP AROUND... PUT SOME JIG IN YOUR FEET! YOU DON'T WANT TO GROW INTO A BIG SAG LIKE ROBIN!

WESTINGHOUSE FOLLOWS RAILS IN STOCK JUMP

Market Picture Brightens as Number of Issues Take Upswing.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market picture brightened a bit further today as rails led the list in a modest extension of Monday's recovery.

Prominent on the early swing were Santa Fe, Great Northern, Union Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Anaconda, Bethlehem, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Sperry, Boeing, Westinghouse, Texas Co., Eastman Kodak, Du Pont and Allied Chemical.

Among the few laggards were Kennecott, General Electric, Standard Oil (N. J.) and Youngstown Sheet.

Wall Street seemed to take a more hopeful view of the war news as well as domestic developments. Buyers took on the rails in the wake of the I. C. C. decision turning down the petition of the price administration for a postponement of recent freight rate boosts on certain commodities.

Boardrooms studied the federal reserve summary disclosing commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of member banks in 101 cities for the week ended March 11 were up $57,000,000.

Interest was shown in forecasts from trade circles that the drastic reduction in output of durable goods may result in a sales cut of 50 per cent in this field. It was estimated sales of automobiles, homes, refrigerators and other similar items, which amounted to about $10,000,000,000 in 1941, would drop to $5,000,000,000 in the current year.

Athletic Director At Galion Gives Up His Position

GALION — Athletic director at Galion high school for the past two years, C. L. Mackey resigned his position today. The resignation was accepted by the board of education at a special meeting last night.

Mackey, who gave no reason for the resignation, said he would like to continue coaching. He said his plans for the future were indefinite.

Board members would neither confirm nor deny that Mackey had been asked to resign because of the poor showing football and basketball teams have made during his period as coach.

Mackey came to Galion from Bradford in 1938 as assistant to Athletic Director John F. Burnison. He was made director two years later. He is a graduate of Emory Henry college.

During the 1940-41 season, Galion basketball teams failed to win a game. Last fall the football team won one game and tied one. This season the basketball team has won two out of 17 games.

ORDERS BOOST IN BEET WAGE

Wickard Rules Increase In Pay For Laborers.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard ordered increases ranging from $2 to $3.50 an acre for early season sugar beet labor over 1943 minimum wage rates. Harvesting rates will be announced soon.

New minimum rates for Ohio producing districts are blocking and thinning $13.50 an acre, or 45 cents an hour, hoeing 40 cents an hour.

Wages for 1942 were increased the department said, mainly because of advance in sugar prices, government payments, general agricultural wages and living costs.

HUNT SOLDIER FOR SLAYING

Private Charged With Beating Fellow Army Man to Death

CAMP LEE, Va.—(UP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced yesterday that a murder warrant had been sworn out against Pvt. John W. Statchen, 26 of New Britain, Conn., on charges of slaying a fellow soldier.

The body of Pvt. Charles E. Haas, 23, of Youngstown, O., was found in a wooded section of the post the FBI said several hours after he failed to report for reveille.

Haas, who was last seen with Statchen Thursday night, apparently had been beaten to death. Police of several states have been asked to look out for Statchen who has been absent without leave from the post since Thursday night.

WOODLAND HOME STRUCK BY BOLT

Electrical Storm Hits City as Mercury Mounts; It's Due To Drop Today.

colde temperatures for tonight and tomorrow, however. At noon today the thermometer stood at 44 degrees.

Intermittent showers yesterday and last night ran the precipitation total up to .34 inch.

Lightning struck an aerial wire on the home of V. M. Fay, 500 Chevy Chase road and followed the wire down into the house. Shingles were torn off the roof and a rafter in the attic was damaged. The bolt also struck an electric plug which was being used to connect a radio. Sparks flew from the aerial, according to the Fays, but no fire was started.

The unseasonable temperatures were prevalent throughout the state. Along the Ohio river reports of a possible flood condition seemed scotched when the river reached a crest several feet below flood stage from East Liverpool to Cincinnati. Several small streams flooded however.

Returns Murder Verdict In Death Of Woman At Lima

LIMA—(INS)—Deliberating five hours and 55 minutes, a jury in common pleas court today had convicted James Maloney for the silk stocking murder of Mrs. Goldie Siler on the grounds of the Lima State hospital for Criminal Insane early in the morning of Nov. 6, last.

The conviction on a second degree count, makes a life sentence in Ohio State Penitentiary mandatory. The court postponed sentence pending arguments by Defense Counsel E. T. Lippincott for a new trial.

Maloney, with his sisters, Mrs. Cleo Sites and Mrs. Mary Sanders, sitting beside him, received the verdict late last night with bowed head and clenched fists.

He and Mrs. Siler met in a night club. Later her body was found on the hospital grounds. She had been strangled to death with one of her own stockings. A taxi driver testified he had Maloney and Mrs. Siler as passengers shortly before her death.

Draft Scenes To Be Re-Enacted Tonight

Scenes like these will be re-enacted in Washington tonight, when the third selective service drawings are held. At the left, the first draft of World War I, in 1917, with Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, drawing the first number from the now famous fishbowl. At the right, the first draft of World War II, in 1940, with Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson drawing the first capsule. Tonight's draft, the third in a series, will be the first since the United States entered the war. It will affect some 9,000,000 men in the age groups of 20 through 21 and 36 through 44.

TORNADOES KILL 123, INJURE 900

Ripping Winds Cut Swath of Destruction Across Five States.

least 18 were killed and 45 injured in the vicinity of Water Valley, a small town in the north-central section of the state.

The storms struck separately in Mississippi shortly after 4 p. m. (CWT), and large groups of school children, en route home, narrowly escaped. At O'Tuckolofa, near Water Valley, a schoolhouse and teacher's home were demolished a few minutes after school closed. Supt. Edwin Vernon Fennell, 36, and a five-month-old twin daughter were killed, while his wife and other twin escaped.

Two storms struck scattered areas in east-central Illinois. The first ripped through three eastern counties, and the second blasted a trail about 100 miles to the north and west. The first storm hit the center of Alvin, a town of 339, leaving at least eight dead, and the second passed through Lacon, 1,600 population, where six were known dead and about 100 injured in that district. Property damage was heavy.

Tennessee's 20 known dead and more than 100 injured were reported from western communities in the rich cotton land bordering the Mississippi river.

Nine persons were reported killed when a tornado struck Browder, west Kentucky coal mining community. Eleven others were injured. One person was killed at Leitchfield, home community of Kentucky's famed year-old Porter Lashley quadruplets.

Two were known dead at Bardstown, Ky., and Drakesboro and Greenville, Ky., each reported one death.

Indiana's tornadoes struck freakishly in two areas about 150 miles apart. Two were killed at Goshen, a city of 10,000 in the north-central part of the state, and at least 30 were injured. Violent windstorms injured three persons at Shelbyville in the southern part of the state.

Full force of the tornado ripped through a new residential section of Goshen, causing fires and heavy property damage. At least ten homes were flattened.

phrey investigated the tire-slashing today and Paul Martin of the city identification department took photographs of the tires. Martin indicated that the perpetrator evidently had tried to conceal his finger prints by wearing gloves.

Morgan told the sheriff's office that he "had no idea" who committed the act but supposed it was "somebody who had a grudge" against him.

All four tires were in good condition before they were slashed, Humphrey's investigation revealed, and their destruction puts Morgan's car, his only transportation out of commission unless the tire rationing board agrees to let him have new ones.

House, Senate and WPB Start Investigations of Acts By Industries.

also revealed plans to probe charges of "slowdowns" in production, made against each other by labor and management.

Both management and labor must realize that they are just a means to an end—the means of necessary production," Truman said.

War production board sources indicated that Nelson himself will conduct the WPB's investigation into Guthrie's charges and it was predicted that if they are substantiated the officials with whom he had difficulties probably will be asked to resign.

One source close to Nelson frankly admitted that he "suspected" there was foundation for the reports that the circumstances as outlined by Guthrie also existed in other WPB branches.

Truman said that hearings on the rubber situation, which had been set for April 6, may begin earlier.

WPA CUTS DOWN

Work To Be Concluded In Six Nearby Counties.

Six nearby counties were among the 27 in the state in which the WPA will suspend operations as soon as projects now underway are completed, it was announced today by State Administrator Carl Watson.

The nearby counties affected include Ashland, Crawford, Holmes, Huron, Knox and Morrow.

Watson said the action was undertaken to free 1,200 workers in those counties for agricultural production, private industry and other phases of wartime endeavor. He said he felt certain that the small number of workers involved would be absorbed by private industry quickly.

Hinting that the curtailment might soon extend to other counties, Watson said that the order was restricted to the 27 counties "for the present."
